LUXOR, Jan. 30.—The following account, written especially by Lord Carnarvon, supplements and extends the description of his visit to the Valley of the Kings for an inspection of the antiquities removed from the tomb of King Tut-ankh-Amen, which was given from a conversation with Lord Carnarvon yesterday:

"What I have to say may, perhaps, be interesting, because the objects which I saw only imperfectly in the obscurity and confusion of the tomb are now much more easily examined and appreciated, and no authoritative description of any individual objects has yet been published.

"I went yesterday first to the tomb of Seti II., which is now used, as is known, as a workshop or laboratory. Here I was able to see and study the results of the labors of Mr. Carter and his assistants. We have to be very careful as to who approaches even the entrance of the laboratory, but admission is not in itself a pleasure. Even from the outside the smell of chemicals is perceptible, and on entering the odors of acetone, alkalies, and other unpleasant things which the experts seem to enjoy using are very strong.

"The tomb consists of what, in effect, is a long passageway, and all the way down are boxes containing precious objects. There are tables covered with bottles, large parcels of wadding and trays containing miscellaneous objects lightly covered with cloths to keep off the dust, while the door through which you enter has a very ponderous steel gate with four padlocks, which no longer precludes any possibility of theft. Although, nothing could be more admirably managed than the details over which Mr. Carter and his staff have spent so much thought and labor. The passage is a long one, running into the hillside, and the only light comes from the entrance. At the farther end one must examine the objects with an electric torch.

Spoken Carvings Marvels of Beauty.

"You have already heard of the throne or chair of state. It is even more beautiful than we had imagined. The delicacy of the bifold problems shown work is quite extraordinary, and the carving and modelling of the figures of the King and Queen, which are in low relief, are really wonderful in power and expression. I believe it is the only example of such a chair of state yet found. Between the seat and the legs were originally figures or decorative work of some kind, probably of gold, because they have been very neatly cut away by robbers. From the struts supporting and strengthening the legs jagged ends show where the figures have been violently broken off. Great care must undoubtedly be exercised in handling the arrangement of this beautiful object, because some parts of it are in a most precarious condition.

"Most of the portions of the chair, except the decorated bifold surfaces, are covered in the thinnest gold. Where gold is laid directly on the wood the surface is practically as good as when it was first made. Where, however, gilding is laid over the modelling in gesso the plaster has deteriorated and much care is necessary. When the work of preservation is finished I believe it will reveal itself to the public as one of the most beautiful objects ever made.

"Another object, almost more wonderful than the throne, is a box which contained some of the King's clothes. This, as already related, is painted with scenes of the King hunting lions and other animals, and the painting is so delicate as to resemble the finest miniatures. At the present moment the whole surface is thickly coated with a clear transparent preservative wax, but even through this the colors are quite bright and the beauty of the work is plainly visible. When the wax has been removed the box will appear in almost all its original beauty. Mr. Harry and Mr. Lucas already have spent many days upon it, but nothing can be done but tedious and exact work. When finished it will be recognized as a veritable masterpiece of their profession and skill.

"Unfortunately, a certain amount of damp exist, from some as yet undiscovered cause, in the tomb. It is not visible to the eye, for all the floor is in practically a rotten condition. What causes this damp is now at all events known or possible, and no longer a fabric. Even with the greatest care it is very doubtful if much of it can be saved.

A Glove of the King's Babyhood.

"There is, however, one object of this class which would, I imagine, create the greatest interest in Yorvil, home of everything to England. It is a little glove made of some sort of linen. It is of the gauntlet type of glove, and has not one of the fingers in detached

Says Influenza of Mild Type Is Now Appearing Here

Health Commissioner Copeland said yesterday that there had been many cases of influenza reported to the Health Department this month; that the disease appeared to be of a very mild type, but that there was enough of it in the community to justify a resolute vigilance against symptoms which appeared to be those of a common cold. Monday, he said, there were 333 cases of the disease reported to the Health Department, and yesterday, 331 cases, making a total of 1,344 cases since the first day of January.

"Cold, slightest symptoms to chill and wet feet," the Commissioner said.

"Take plenty of rest and sleep. Wash the hands before eating, and wash the face and hands on returning to the house. If there is a feeling of illness consult the family physician. Do not neglect to give immediate attention to any of the initial symptoms of this disease.

"There is nothing in the situation at all alarming, but it should give warning to all who possess."

SOL BLOOM ELECTED, BUT FACES RECOUNT

Walter M. Chandler, Republican Representative, Loses by 206 in Nineteenth District.

DISPUTES POLICE RETURNS

About Half the 62,000 Enrolled Cast Votes in the Special Election.

Sol Bloom, Democratic candidate for Representative in the Nineteenth Congressional District, was successful in the special election held in that district yesterday, defeating his Republican opponent, Walter M. Chandler, the present Representative, by 206 votes. A recount will probably be asked by the Chandler forces. From the time the counting of the votes began until the returns from the last district were tabulated the result was in doubt. Several times it was said that Chandler had won. At 9:40 o'clock the announcement was made that Bloom had won by 238 votes, with three election districts out of 333 missing. At 9 o'clock "Chandler by 421" was the bulletin. A half hour later it was again announced that Bloom was in the lead, and a few minutes later John J. Lyons, Senior Secretary of State, one of the Chandler campaign managers, admitted that the vote was close, and that while unofficial figures gave Bloom a plurality of 93, Chandler would ultimately win.

"I am confident Chandler will be seated," said Mr. Lyons. "We will not accept the early figures, as they are not official. If these figures stand we will protest and fight."

The vote, according to the final police figures, was as follows: Bloom, 17,393; Chandler, 17,199; Bentzer (Socialist), 315. While the vote was light during the day, it picked up materially at night, and the local leaders confidently that a satisfactory vote had been polled for a special election, the result showing that more than 30 per cent. of the enrolled vote of the district had been cast.

The special election was called by Governor Nathan L. Miller to elect a successor to Samuel Mayer, who died after being elected last November on the Democratic ticket. Mayer defeated Chandler by 1,600 votes, but the Republicans attributed his election to the Smith landslide. The district is normally Republican. About 62,000 voters who registered in the district for the election last November were eligible to vote yesterday. Discussing his plans yesterday Mr. Bloom said:

"I elected I'll be a hell of a guy or nothing. Billy Sunday won't have anything on me for breaking up the Sanhedrin."

Bloom came to New York from San Francisco twenty years ago. Besides being widely known in the photographic and music publishing business he has been a member of Congress in this city before. He formerly was head of a shirtwaist firm. Unofficial figures gave Police Chief Inspector Cornelius F. Gallagher of Police Headquarters Independent his election by 300 votes. He said the figures were wrong. Lieutenant Malachy Mc-Donnell, Democrat, claimed that in the Eighth precinct in which the police were detailed he had received 1,087 votes against 1,057 for Bloom.

Court Holds Lusitania Sinking Act of War And Alfred G. Vanderbilt Insurance Void

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—The sinking of the Lusitania was an act of war, the Court of Appeals held here today in deciding the case of the estate of Alfred G. Vanderbilt against an insurance company.

A clause in the policy held by Mr. Vanderbilt, who was drowned when the Lusitania went down, automatically nullified it if he were death was caused by war. Today's verdict upheld the action of the insurance company in refusing to make payment on the policy.

So far as available records showed last night, the Court of Appeals decision in the Alfred G. Vanderbilt estate case is the first in which the sinking of the Lusitania is held to have been an act of war. The policy involved was one in the Travelers Insurance Company for $250,000. The company refused to pay on the ground that the policy was void in case death was directly or indirectly due to the war or to exposure to unnecessary danger, and the executors brought suit.

On behalf of some of the 128 Americans who lost their lives when the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine on May 7, 1915, suits aggregating $7,000,000 were filed against the Cunard line, which owned the Lusitania. The Federal District Court, in an opinion delivered by Judge Julius M. Mayer on Aug. 23, 1922, upheld the contention of the British owners that the sinking was an act of piracy. It also held the destruction of the passenger ship to have been "unspeakably cowardly" and a violation of all laws governing civilized warfare at sea.

In a final decree Judge Mayer, sitting in the Admiralty Branch of the District Court nearly a year later, threw out all claims against the Cunard Line, still holding that the sinking was a German crime. His recommendation was that the claimants of their lights seek redress from the German Government through their State Department.

A decision of the Appellate Division in July, 1922, awarded $30,000 damages to the widow of Albert L. Hopkins, a Lusitania victim, although Mr. Hopkins had signed a "rider" to his policy releasing the insurer in the event that the death should result from the European war. That decision, however, was based on technical grounds—the failure of the company to have the rider properly dated and approved by State insurance authorities.

SMITH REMOVES LAW; HOLDS MISFEASANCE CHARGE IS PROVED

Governor Finds Head of Tax Commission Was Also Guilty of Neglect of Duty.

CITES MILLER ORDERS

Rules Commissioner Failed to Reorganize Department or Keep Within Appropriation Allowed.

REMOVAL WAS EXPECTED

John F. Gilchrist, Now a Member of the Board, Likely to Be Made President.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—Walter W. Law Jr., President of the State Tax Commission, was removed today by Governor Smith on charges of misfeasance in office and negligence of duty. The order of removal was served on Mr. Law late this afternoon and simultaneously a statement was filed by the Governor with the Secretary of State setting forth the reasons for his action. Governor Smith said this evening that his slight annoyance Mr. Law's summary removal.

The Governor's action was not unexpected. The general belief at the Capitol is that John F. Gilchrist, a close friend of the Governor, and a member of the First Assembly District in New York, where the Governor himself grew up, will be designated as President of the State Tax Commission to succeed Mr. Law. Mr. Gilchrist is now a member of the commission.

Among the persons mentioned for third place on the commission is William Church Osborn, anti-Tammany Democrat, who is a resident of Putnam County, and for a time some years ago was Chairman of the Democratic State Committee. Governor Smith tonight would neither deny nor affirm this report that he had Mr. Osborn in mind for the place.

Governor Smith said that with the Secretary of State the Governor sets forth that Mr. Law had utterly failed to meet the charges preferred against him. The Governor said he had studied that explanation after a careful study of the plan and purpose his predecessor, Governor Miller, had in mind when he proposed consolidation of the various tax collecting agencies under the new tax department and confronted this plan with the work of Comptroller Law.

The Governor said that in maintaining a motor vehicle bureau in Buffalo Mr. Law had acted in violation of the law which provided that in Erie County the work of the motor vehicle bureau should be performed by the County Clerk.

"Your constant appearance before the Budget Committee for increases in salaries and the creation of new places within your department," the Governor said in his letter, "to my mind was nothing more or less than a desire to satisfy ambitions of the State with political patronage. All the facts have indicate that you were concerned with patronage rather than the question of economy.

"I am entirely dissatisfied with your conducting the public complaint about the handling of the motor vehicle bureau in the city of New York. There is your own statement you failed even to make any investigation of it, although public dissatisfaction and complaint was widespread. I have in my possession evidence that there existed in New York City a well-defined plan by which appointments were given private owners in the Motor Vehicle Bureau for the securing of number plates upon payment of a fee, which supplements would otherwise have been required to take their places in the long line. The public press in no uncertain terms complained of inequalities, to which, by your own statement, you paid no attention and refused to investigate. Your failure to do so, I am forced to conclude, was due to the fact that the whole thing was established with your approval.

"In conclusion let me say that by my action you not only lose the ability to act in this department, but by your own admission you refuse to do so. Your services are at naught, the well defined program of consolidation and modification of taxing agencies and you have done nothing more or less than to continue

Statue to Mark the Grave Of Joyce Kilmer, Poet Soldier

A monument thirty-five feet in height, to be made the gift of Sergeant Joyce Kilmer, poet soldier, who died fighting in France with the Sixty-ninth Infantry, Sergeant Kilmer, a member of the staff of The New York Times, was the son of Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Kilmer of College Avenue, New Brunswick, N. J., and the monument is to be put in place next Summer when they go abroad to visit the French cemetery where he rests.

The memorial is the work of Paolo Abbate, famous Italian sculptor, who, like Sergeant Kilmer, held membership in the Dante Society of America. The statue is called "David the Soldier."

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE UPHOLDS ANDERSON

Ratifies Acts, Despite the Known Views of Rockefellers on Commissions.

PECORA HEARS SECRETARY

Former Bookkeeper Appears on Her Own Account—Denies Knowing of $24,700 Fund.

The Board of Directors of the Anti-Saloon League of New York at an executive meeting to which the press was barred, held yesterday in the Hotel McAlpin, "renewed" by resolution its vote of confidence in William H. Anderson, State superintendent, and ratified "what he has done in the premises, all of which we believe has been fully reported to us." Having taken this action, the members left the private sitting room where the meeting was held, by way of the service elevator, according to hotel employes, leaving Mr. Anderson behind to tell reporters that the only information regarding the session would be given out at the headquarters of the league, 298 Broadway.

In the light of Mr. Anderson's admission that he split commissions on large donations with C. Bedell Phillips, former chief financial field representative, the action of the board was construed as being in agreement with Mr. Anderson's contention that acceptance of the money was not unethical since it had not been applied to personal use. As the definition of the Rockefellers from the list of contributions was said to have hinged on the question of paying commissions, there were some who interpreted the resolution as far from condoning a way toward re-establishing financial relations with that family.

John D. Rockefeller and Mr. Rockefeller Jr. and others, to it was learned yesterday from an authoritative source, have until recently that they wanted Mr. Anderson out of the league. Hence the endorsement of Mr. Anderson was taken as the expression of a willingness to break permanently with them.

Resolution at Meeting.

Ex-Senator Edgar T. Brackett, counsel for Mr. Anderson, who was present at yesterday's meeting, when asked if the Rockefellers had been mentioned during the session, replied that "when one door is closed the Lord usually opens another." It was pointed out that this cryptic remark could be interpreted to mean that the league intended to go along without the financial aid of the Rockefellers, which was said to have constituted a third of the annual revenues.

The resolution, which was reported to have been unanimously adopted, was given out by Mr. Anderson, follows:

"We unhesitatingly certify to the churches to whom this organization owes its existence that the critical hour of prohibition in the State of New York has been forced into the immediate present, and the time has come when the churches must understand that temperance reform and law enforcement are most distinctly upon them. We do not forget that 'when the enemy cometh like a flood the Lord shall lift up a banner.' The board takes the position that there must be no compromise at any point or in any manner with any of the forces that have been opposed or are now opposed to prohibition in the State of New York. We will not compromise with the forces of evil under any circumstances. It is therefore

"Resolved, That this board again renew its vote of duplicate confidence in the Superintendent, William H. Anderson. We express with a deeper emphasis than ever before our thanks to him for the wise and upright and courageous way in which he has conducted and managed the affairs of the Anti-Saloon League in this State. We extend to him again a vote of our absolute confidence, and hereby ratify and approve what he has done in the premises, all of which we believe to have been fully reported to us. And we utter our defiance against the world, the flesh and the devil, which we believe are leagued against us in this contest."

A footnote on the typewritten copies of the resolution set forth that all members were present except one, who is ill, one who is detained by official business, both of whom communicated in advance their desire for and approval of said action, and one who has recently started on a trip around the world."

Mr. Anderson refused to give out the names of the board members present. The sitting number was Bishop Luther B. Wilson, President of the Anti-Saloon League, who is confined to his home in Mamaroneck, N. Y. The Rev. G. F. Rockwell is temporarily acting as President. Mr. Anderson is also ill. Among those who were present were the Rev. William H. Foulkes, the Rev. Dr. Charles Scott Haight, the Rev. Dr. George Odell Hunt, Secretary of the League; the Rev. W.

GUARD IS KIDNAPPED, ARMY CASH STOLEN, 2 SOLDIERS ACCUSED

Pay Party Is Seized in Front of Hampton (Va.) Bank and Carried Away.

TIED TO TREES IN MARSH

Automobile Sticks in Mud and Robbers Flee With Langley Field $43,000 Payroll.

POSSE CATCHES CORPORALS

Both Men Are Identified by Victims —Most of the Stolen Money Is Recovered.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 30.—Corporals John S. Woods and James H. Harvey, attached to the Fifty-eighth Squadron at Langley Field, near here, were captured about twenty miles from Newport News in a marshy hollow close to Big Bethel by a posse of soldiers and citizens early tonight. With the exception of $3,000 in silver, which the men were forced to abandon in their flight, the $43,000 which they obtained in a hold-up at Hampton early in the day was recovered.

The two men held up and kidnapped Captain Norman Cota, finance officer, and a guard of four enlisted men as they were leaving the First National Bank of Hampton about 9:15 o'clock this morning with $43,000 in currency to be used in paying the personnel of Langley Field tomorrow.

Bloodhounds, soldiers, civilians and police, using every available means of transportation, were working at top speed throughout the day in efforts to locate the two enlisted men who turned bandits. Captain Cota was accompanied by four enlisted men—Edward C. Foster, Robert W. Davis, Frank K. Hawks and I. R. Gaff—as guards when the robbery and kidnapping occurred.

Victims Tied to Trees.

Captain Cota and his escort were found near Big Bethel by a searching party early in the afternoon, with the big army passenger car stuck in the mud. The men had been tied to trees after the car struck and the bandits then escaped.

The finance officer left the First National Bank at Hampton this morning with the $43,000 in currency, which was sufficient to meet the needs of the payroll tomorrow. Waiting in an army car directly in front of the bank was a soldier on the front seat beside the chauffeur and a guard in the rear.

As the Captain, with his satchel strapped upon the running board of the machine, a voice exclaimed: "Keep quiet or I'll fill you full of holes." And he says that he and his guards were covered by two guns. The bandits were dressed in army clothing, with overcoats. Recently, who noticed the affair declared they thought it was merely an army arrest, and passed it over without any special significance.

The prisoners were then ordered into another car which Captain Cota was covered by the bandit sitting in the front seat. As soon as the Captain entered the car it was driven hurriedly toward Newport News.

Fail to Find Confederate.

The car sped through Newport News and then headed for the Norfolk ferry. The boat had left only a few minutes before and the driver made a sharp turn and dashed toward the Yorktown ferry. A stop was made in an effort to find a road driven by a supposed confederate of the bandits, but he failed to appear. Then no time was lost in getting to the Yorktown ferry, but there, too, the boat had just sailed. Then the party headed for Big Bethel and a short time after the car was found.

After tying up the finance officer and his guards with ropes, the bandits made for the woods to escape, first giving Captain Cota a pile of brush to stand upon, as one of the bandits remarked, "You are a good chap, so don't get yourself hurt."

Authorities at Langley Field, becoming alarmed at the unusually long time taken by Captain Cota in getting the money back to camp, telephoned to the bank for information. They were informed of the early departure of the officer with the money, and a search was started at once.

Major Milling, acting commandant at Langley Field, sent out calls for all detectives as quickly as possible, although he did not at the time have actual knowledge of the robbery. More were sent in record time, while soldiers in many cities and towns were notified. A later check at the camp disclosed the disappearance of Wood and Harvey, who were identified by the party when found.

Airplanes were put on the search early in the day. A squadron flew low over the Virginia peninsula during the afternoon, hunting for traces of the two men.

The robbery is considered the most daring in the history of Tidewater Virginia. It is believed that a well-planned affair, including a rush hour. The men with which it was carried out indicated a carefully worked-out plan.

Paris Court Permits Miss Littauer to Wed, Considering Her of Age as an American

PARIS, Jan. 30 (Associated Press).—The suit brought by Colonel William A. Littauer of New York, to prevent his daughter, Catherine Leslie, from marrying William R. Deeter was rejected by the first Paris civil court today.

The court held that as both young people are of age and as the Americans have do not require parental consent, they can be married in France by complying with the usual formalities. Colonel Littauer's attorney had contended that, while in France, Miss Littauer was subject to the French laws regarding the parents' consent.

Mr. Deeter is an automobile dealer of Columbus, Ohio.

A brother officer of William Hales Deeter, engaged to marry Miss Catherine Leslie Littauer, said yesterday that the reports from Paris which described Deeter as serving during the war in the American Army were untrue. This officer said that Deeter served as a lieutenant of field artillery throughout the war, earning five clasps on his service record in the fighting of the Third Division.

After going into Germany with the Army of Occupation, Deeter, who was one of the reserve officers who received a Lieutenancy in the regular service at the end of hostilities, returned to this country and served on the staff of the Chief of Field Artillery at Washington.

The brother officer who discussed Deeter yesterday said that at the end of his two years' service in Washington Deeter resigned his commission and worked for the Willis S. Clair Automobile Company at their Washington office. There he met Miss Littauer, a daughter of the Army and Navy Club, the Chevy Chase Club and the Washington Country Club. In the summer of 1922 Deeter went to Europe on business for his company, and Miss Littauer, at a social event of a club of which both were members, announced that Deeter was engaged to her.

Deeter, who enlisted at the outbreak of the World War, comes from Tiffin, Ohio.

FRENCH WARN BERLIN; RUHR IS QUIETER; BRITISH ARE STIRRED BY NEW PARIS MOVE TO PLACATE TURKS, YIELDING ON TREATY

FRENCH NOTE TO ANGORA

It Declares That Allied Demands Do Not Constitute an Ultimatum.

PLEDGES FURTHER PARLEYS

French Delegation Will Remain at Lausanne or Meet the Turks Elsewhere.

PARIS AND LONDON CENSURE

Journal des Debats Condemns Action and Daily News Calls It Desertion.

By HERBERT L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Today, while Lord Balfour was formally laying before the Council of the League of Nations the Mosul situation, which he described as having in it the possibilities of war, but without pressing for immediate action, it was learned that the French Government was taking measures to prevent the breaking up of the Lausanne Conference.

A note sent to Angora, as well as to the Turkish delegation at Lausanne, and likewise communicated to Rome and London, set forth that Paris did not regard the text of the treaty handed to the Turks yesterday as the Allies' last word, and that if the Turkish delegates should return to Lausanne the French diplomats would stay there to discuss affairs with them. The note announced that in case Ismet Pasha wished to go to Angora to consult his Government about the proposed treaty France was willing to resume the negotiations when and where the Turks wished to do so.

It is not announced whether the British Government, now that Lord Curzon at Lausanne has called the treaty the limit of concessions, will back the French plan to prolong the conference, but Lord Balfour's tone today indicated that such might be the case, since he advised withholding the formal decision of the League Council until after the Turks had had another chance to accept the conclusion of the League.

There is a divergence of views here as to the wisdom of the French move. The Temps finds in it new proof of France's desire for peace. "In taking this attitude even before the Turkish delegation had replied to the project submitted the French Government shows that it sincerely wishes peace in the Orient; that it will spare no effort to that end; and if, unfortunately, war begins again, the responsibility will fall on those who did not wish to follow France."

Paris Paper Condemns French Action.

The Journal des Debats, on the other hand, thinks the only result will be to encourage Turkish intransigeance.

"If the Turks were not possessed with folly," it says, "they would sign the treaty quickly, happy to see the end by the unhoped-for success of their orbital adventure of 1920. England has yielded on everything except Mosul, and France has vanished the vanishing of all her interests, moral and material.

"And now we tell the Turks the treaty handed them yesterday is not our last word—that France, who has given up too much, is ready to yield still more.

"At the same time we denounce England because of her suddenly in establishing a few of her demands. It seems we wish to establish as masters in the Orient the Turks, allies of the Bolsheviki, the foes of the allies of Germany. Certainly the Turks are not the biggest fools in this affair."

Britain on the Danger of War.

Addressing the Council, Lord Balfour said that the Mosul frontier dispute, which Lausanne had not been able to solve, interested the League from two points of view: First, because Mosul was within the territory under a League mandate, and, second, because, as Lord Curzon had pointed out in his letter to

Strike May Delay Return Of Some American Troops

COBLENZ, Jan. 30 (Associated Press).—Except for a few trains manned by French crews, the railways are still inoperative. It is feared the transit situation will interfere somewhat with the plans of the remainder of the American officers and men here who are due to sail from Antwerp on board the steamer America Feb. 7.

If conditions require, a majority of the men may be sent by automobile to unoccupied Germany, whose trains are running to Antwerp.

John A. Dolan of the American section of the Rhineland Commission has offered his three-ton river boat, Mary Jane to convey friends down the Rhine to points where they can catch trains.

ALLIED DISUNION UPSETS LAUSANNE

British Issue a Heated Protest Against French "Violation" of Understanding.

TURKS DENOUNCE TREATY

They Say Allies Have Included Clauses on Whose Elimination Both Sides Agreed.

LAUSANNE, Jan. 30.—(Associated Press).—Complications suddenly arose among the allied representatives at the Near East Peace Conference at a late hour tonight when the French delegation announced that it had decided to remain in Lausanne as long as there was any hope of carrying on successful negotiations with the Turks.

The British delegation considered the decision of the French a flagrant violation of the understanding reached between the Allies a few days ago that all of them would leave Lausanne at the end of the week if the Turks did not sign tomorrow the treaty which has been handed them.

All the British delegates announced officially tonight that they would adhere to this program, whatever the other allied delegations decider to do. Lord Curzon will start for London Friday.

The British protest against the French decision is based on a statement issued by the British delegation last week. This was to the effect that the treaty would be presented to the Turks for signature on Wednesday, and that the allied delegations had agreed to depart Friday. If the Turks asked for further time to consider the treaty, then the conference was to adjourn, but the plenipotentiaries would be ready to return to Lausanne when there were indications that the negotiations could be brought to a successful conclusion.

Both the French and Italian delegations supported the British stand with the greatest reluctance. The spokesman for the French delegation informed The Associated Press tonight that, while there was some idea of leaving Lausanne at the end of the week if the Turks signed, France found it difficult to adhere to any tentative program of procedure if the Turks asked for several days in which to examine the draft treaty and requested further negotiations on the spot.

He added that France could not put herself in the position of blocking the road to peace nor abruptly breaking off negotiations so vital to the future of Europe. Moreover, M. Bompard was not a free agent, like Lord Curzon, who is Foreign Minister of Great Britain. The representative added that M. Bompard was subject to instructions from his Government in Paris.

Hitter Officials Refrain Statements.

The statement from the British delegation was as follows:

"A semi-official announcement appearing this evening giving an alleged communication from the French Government to the Angora Government that the treaty submitted at Lausanne is only part of a series of preparatory leading to fresh negotiations, and that the French Government is prepared to leave its entire delegation in Lausanne, is not credited by the British delegation.

"It would be a flagrant violation of the mutual understanding arrived at by the allied plenipotentiaries only a few days ago, and it has been issued without reference either to the British Government or delegation. The latter does not propose to alter its plans, as already announced."

The British idea has been that further detailed discussions on the treaty to be presented tomorrow would be impossible, because the conference already has dragged out too long. They announced last week that Lord Curzon would depart Friday, leaving an expert or two here to give any information the Turks might desire. When the Turks were ready to sign, if ever, then all hands would return to Lausanne.

The revolt against the British plan has been steadily growing the week, the opposition being that it would be likely to forestall the Turks for peace terms as it was too small in the matter of an ultimatum. Lord Curzon, M. Bompard and the Marquis di Garroni had a long conference, at which it is understood that Bompard and Garroni

DUESSELDORF, Jan. 30.—The French today removed the soldiers from the Duesseldorf post office and immediately work was resumed. Wherever they have taken them from the railroad stations, as at Treves, the men have returned. If they refrain from ordering functionaries deliberately to disobey their Government, they can count on co-operation.

That has, for instance, been the case with Dr. Giltzner, the Prussian Governor of this province. Either because of his large personal following or for other reasons, the French have so far refrained from asking him to fulfill their orders in opposition to those of Berlin. As a result he is still at his post carrying out the local government with skill and authority, and in many ways aiding the French Generals in their task without giving them direct help.

Deputy Explains French Position.

In a statement today General Degoutte made it clear that the French policy of moderation was now fixed so far as the local populace was concerned, though excepting always those who took orders from Berlin. With skill he drew a parallel between the peaceful occupation by the French troops and the ruthless way in which the Prussians suppressed the Communist rising in March, 1920.

"The French Army," he said, "is not like the Prussian Army. We are not bloodthirsty murderers." Then he added:

"Moderation is not, however, a weakness, and those people are mistaken who think that our patience has no limits. We have left to the political leaders of Germany all the time necessary for careful examination of what they are about. They are pondering in useless struggle and defiance, and they must be held responsible for the misfortunes of their country. We will not halt on our chosen way. We came here to impose our will on Germany, and we shall stay till we have thus an end broken her opposition."

After referring to the measures which had been taken to suppress opposition, the General added:

"More general penalties will soon be decided upon, and it will then be possible to see where the real policy of the Ruhr Government has conducted Germany. The verdict of history will be a severe one against those men, who are still entranced with the same spirit which in the past so harmed their country and is now again bringing it to ruin."

French Progress Slow But Sure.

Just what measures are being prepared for the first of February it is idle to speculate. The air is full of rumors of declarations of independence, Rhineland ultimatums to the Reich and the fabrication of new currencies. These things may come, but they will come slowly. It is M. Poincaré's habit, and he has fortified the idea, into all his moves. One procedure must be slow, step by step. There must not be any running of engine.

In that, the indications are, his policy is right. Time is working for France here. In another week it is likely that even the railroad strike will come to an end. There is no increase certainly in the thing for the French. But the Germans has so long bowed to the military authority that to lose the habit of it, from the attempt to boycott French officers in the shops has failed. At Buer, Gelsenkirchen and several other centres where big units on a big scale were staged they have fallen through.

The only place where the Germans have really scored is in their absolutely pitiful and persistent refusal to give information about the mines to the French engineers or allow them to have any real control.

That mission has so far entirely failed. It has secured neither coal nor payments of any kind. It has attached no control over the mines and it admits that whatever the customs barrier may show there can be no receipts out of the mines by French working. Then the French must be absolutely dependent on the good-will and hard work of the German miners and German technical staffs.

If they can make it possible for the Germans to work the mines with the interference and can ensure the shipment of coal the situation may work out favorably, but everybody here is ready to admit that there is no chance of any quick victory. We will not halt on our chosen way. We came here to impose our will on Germany, and we shall stay till we have thus an end broken her opposition."

COLOGNE, Jan. 30 (Dispatch to the London Daily Chronicle).—General Degoutte received the representatives of the foreign press at Düsseldorf today and made a speech to them on the situation. The General, who was very cordial, was obviously acting under strict instructions from Paris, for his speech was read with great care and he would not add a sentence to the contents of it. The speech, which is best described as the communiqué issued by French headquarters, was as follows:

"When the French and Belgian armies entered the Ruhr district on Jan. 11 last, I made plain the real meaning and object behind the coming of French soldiers. They were there—I clearly said—to obtain by means of productive pledges the payment of Germany's debt. We did not intend to carry out military or political purposes. We had nothing of the kind. We intended to secure a way of the right sort of which we had been deprived. Our action was taken in the name of the Belgian, Italian and French Governments with the task of securing full execution of the obligations which the Germans promised to fulfil.

Sanctions Only Peaceful.

"We have nothing but peaceful intentions. We proceed to secure as little disturbance as possible in the normal life of the German population. We did not wish to disturb anybody. We asked the local authorities to make our task easy and we requested the workers to go on with their work in order and tranquillity.

"But the German Government tried by every means in their power to bring about a general rebellion of the people, and at the same time our agents were being killed by the hundreds. Under the form of the so-called passive resistance the whole of the Ruhr Government, which showed all evil servants to rebel openly against the French authorities and evade the payment of the duties they owed to the State, by refusing every way and all means collaboration to the Allied armies of occupation, or even demonstrations, &c.

"The very personality of this fight not carried on by any of our opponents, as we were unable to find only of our forces, but also of the justice of our cause. We did not call upon the spirit of loyalty and bloody oppression. The French Army, gentlemen, is not the Prussian Army. We are not murderers. We are not anxious to put everything to fire and sword to vent our feelings in the way the soldiers of Hindenburg did in the years ago over Northern France. The French soldiers displayed an extraordinary gift of self-discipline, of which their country is proud. Moderation is not, however, weakness, and they are unhappy who think that our patience has no limits.

"I have tried to carry on our action without bloodshed. We did not in the slightest degree want to make martyrs of ourselves. We did not intend to carry out executions. We did not intend to shoot anybody who did not deserve to be shot. We did not intend to shoot anybody who did not deserve to be shot. We did not intend to shoot anybody who did not deserve to be shot

BRITISH DECISION DEFERRED ON DEBT

Cabinet Takes Up the American Proposal and Hears Baldwin's Report.

WILL MEET AGAIN TODAY

Action Is Expected This Week—Some Members Are Reluctant to Assent.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The British Cabinet has not come to a decision concerning the American plan for funding the British debt.

It met this afternoon at 4 o'clock and finished the report of Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on his mission to Washington. The discussion continued until 5:45, when it was adjourned until tomorrow.

No statement was given out beyond that here fact that the Cabinet meeting was not completed, but would be resumed tomorrow. This is unusually significant.

It is known that a certain number of the Ministers, perhaps including Prime Minister Bonar Law, if not absolutely opposed to the acceptance of the American terms, are hesitating about the wisdom of plunging Great Britain to pay each year many millions of dollars for sixty-two years, and it was anticipated that they would require time to analyze and consider the figures which the American plan involves.

It is said that the Cabinet will meet again after lunch tomorrow. Baldwin is expected to remain in London for the day instead of setting with prospective calls, so that in the event of the Americans after being accepted there will be time for the necessary legislation to be discussed in Congress before it adjourns.

America Frank Spoil Plan.

"In financial circles in London," says a special correspondent of The Chronicle, "there has been much discussion of the Baldwin mission in its relation to the American debt. It is pointed out that the original understanding to pay the full capital and interest of our debt to America was made at a time when we had every reason to look forward to reparations from Germany and the partial payment of the allied debt to us. We are now about to find ourselves committed to the annual payment of about £33,000,000 to America. Here are our chances of recouping ourselves afforded by the French seizure of the Ruhr?

"If the British proposals had been accepted we should have begun to receive our share of reparations from Germany not later than four years hence, and in those years we should have received increasing reparations, which would further help us to meet an increased rate of interest on the American debt. But as the British proposals have been rejected, it is very doubtful if we shall ever receive from Germany more than the amount claimed by the Allied Governments for arrears of interest on the British loan. Ought it not to be taken into account in determining the total sum Britain ought to pay?"

Decision Expected This Week.

LONDON, Jan. 30 (Associated Press).—It is considered almost certain that a final decision on the American terms for the British debt will be reached this week, first, because if the terms are to be accepted, a speedy decision is required in order to give the American Congress time to take the necessary action, and, second, because the Chancellor of the Exchequer must prepare for his budget statement next March, and needs to know definitely how much he has to provide for the payment of interest to America.

It is understood that there are practically only two alternatives before the Cabinet—acceptance of the American terms, or allowing matters to drift and paying 5 per cent. interest, hoping for some change in conditions in the future. The balance of opinion, it is believed, favors acceptance of the American terms, but there is considerable divergence among the Ministers, especially on account of the American plan requiring interest to be paid in American currency.

The present outlook in European affairs makes the future course of exchange an exceedingly important factor, and the Government is bound to bear in mind the possibility of another fall in the value of the pound, despite the guarantee of gold in both sides of the Atlantic that sterling will soon regain its parity.

Premier Bonar Law had a long talk today with Sir Eric Geddes, who presented the ideas of the manufacturing and commercial community on the question of the debt settlement. It is understood that the views of the City financiers, chiefly that the acceptance of the American plan in order to remove the present uncertainty surrounding the whole affair, which is regarded as detrimental to business interests.

There is no likelihood that Premier Bonar Law will accede to the request of the Parliamentary Labor Party for the convocation of Parliament before Feb. 13 to consider the Ruhr occupation. It was said today in well-informed political quarters.

PEACE ABROAD VITAL TO US, SAYS BEDFORD

Standard Oil Chairman Declares People Await Aggressive Washington Leadership.

BARNES SCORES FARM BLOC

Hits at Economic Fallacies, Says the President of U. S. Chamber of Commerce to Merchants.

Approbation on account of the French occupation of the Ruhr marked the addresses delivered yesterday at a luncheon of the Merchants' Association at the Hotel Astor by A. C. Bedford, Chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and Julius H. Barnes, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce and formerly Chairman of the United States Grain Corporation. Mr. Bedford declared that aggressive leadership at Washington would be welcomed and supported by the whole American people, and Mr. Barnes predicted that no international conference, including the United States, eventually would be called upon to put Europe on a sound economic basis.

"The conference in Lausanne seems particularly near an open break," said Mr. Bedford. "The estrange between England and France has been broken and no man dares predict the ultimate results from the French invasion of the Ruhr. Meanwhile there is unbroken agreement among financial experts and economists to the effect that Europe continues to move toward economic, social and political disintegration. The effect of that process, unless it is promptly arrested, is sure to harm us greatly."

Says England Will Pay.

Mr. Bedford was applauded when he asserted that England would pay her debt, and had "played the game as few countries have ever played it."

"But does not that fact," he continued, "in recognition of the extraordinary circumstances under which England's obligation to us was incurred, compel us to give some thought to the question whether we as a great nation can with complete self-respect quarrel with such a country as England over the question of one-half of 1 per cent. interest per annum during the period of the liquidation of a loan which will involve specific taxation and sacrifice against the whole British people?

"Public sentiment in Great Britain and the United States fiercely questions the wisdom of the French occupation of the Ruhr. There is undoubted resentment that France would be willing to assume a more lenient attitude toward Germany. We all agree that Germany should be forced to pay to the utmost of her ability, but the terms of the agreement to the effect that the terms imposed in the Treaty of Versailles are such that it is impossible for Germany to fulfill.

"Is it not those agreements that the governments and economic interests of Europe have a very intimate bearing upon one another? Is it not possible that there is a psychological factor growing largely out of the moral power which the United States might exercise in the world which might be exercised with great advantage in the present crisis?

"There is a problem which transcends all politics, all national boundaries, all divisions of race and creed. It is a problem which politicians are struggling with and it is a problem upon the disagreement of the world leaders are finding unable to solve. I do not presume to say that any single nation, or any dozen of statesmanship can solve this problem.

No Prosperity Here Without Peace.

"Until peace is established in the world there can be no reasonable expectation of an immediate return to prosperity in this country or any country. We may wish it were otherwise, but the fact prevails. It is not fundamental upon us, therefore, as business men of the United States, upon every possible occasion, either directly or indirectly or through our representatives, to work for and to support any policy which will tend more surely and speedily to restore peace and stability to Europe. Whether it be in the form of participation in the League of Nations or some modification of this policy, or whether it be the unofficially planned but unobtrusively proposed inquiring that action, the world today must face the fact that one of the most important factors in the present situation is the occupation of the Ruhr by the disintegration of the German National Federation.

Mr. Barnes said that the business men of the country had been eager for their powers to have their country take a helpful part in the reconstruction of the affairs of Europe only to be blocked by an opposition of which the farmers of the country were the backbone. He described the change in prices of agricultural products due to the fact that European countries are getting out less foodstuffs, and endeavored to correct a disparity of relation there prices with industrial and other necessities.

"Business men insist," continued Mr. Barnes, "that there is waiting for enterprise by the intervention of governments a great world vacuum of artificial human need which will establish industrial activity and industrial employment on a scale never before known, when political and economic difficulties are removed and when the world regains its stability to function, and by its very functioning restores the spending and buying power of Europe's millions.

"The day will come when American representatives, with a unison voice of the great good which would flow from the establishment of peace, will say to the nations that destroy human lives and the very processes of industry, will unite in a conference with other nations pledged by disaster in their trial, to sympathetically attempt the elimination of these destructive practices. Such a conference, whether called by us, by Italy, or partly each, as long as it is united upon the assumption that fully-informed men gathered together will find a solution for the economic ills, the political, financial and economic errors which have held back the rising tide of world recovery will certainly be laid and certainly removed."

TELL OF TORTURE BY MOORS

Spanish Prisoners Report Horrible Sufferings in Morocco.

MADRID, Jan. 30.—Spanish soldiers and civilians recently ransomed from their Moorish captors have brought to Madrid stories of horrible suffering endured while in Morocco.

The former prisoners said that on the occasion of Spanish victories several of their number were shot. General Navarro was obliged to do menial work with a rope around his neck, while the Sultan's wives were subjected to harsh treatment and were tormented publicly.

Most of the released prisoners are in such poor health that they will have to spend a considerable time in hospitals.

MELLON FIGHTS BILL FOR GERMAN CREDIT

Says the Treasury Has No Funds for $1,000,000,000 Advance for Foodstuffs.

SENATORS BEGIN HEARINGS

W. W. Bauer Appears in Behalf of Plan Which He Has Long Advocated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary Mellon, in a letter today to Chairman McCumber of the Senate Finance Committee, expressed his opposition to the Brookhart bill to establish a billion dollar credit for the German Government to buy foodstuffs in the United States. He said that it was in contravention of the Treasury Department's policy "that foreign Governments desiring to find balances in the United States should appeal to the investing public and not seek Government aid."

Mr. Mellon said that he knew of "no reason for taking any more favorable position with respect to the German Government than toward foreign Governments established with us in the late war."

"The United States Treasury, moreover, has no funds available for loans to foreign Governments," the Secretary added, "and, if such a bill as this were passed, would have to find the funds by new borrowings or additional taxation of the American people, either of whom would be out of the question for such a purpose as this, for the Government's borrowings are already too heavy and existing taxes are too high for the good of agriculture, business and industry."

The Secretary's letter was presented at opening hearings today on the bill by a Senate subcommittee, headed by Senator Sutherland of West Virginia. Wallace W. Bauer of New York, who has been attempting for a year or more to obtain credits in this country for Germany, appeared in support of the measure.

Bauer Conditions Justify Bill.

"The purpose of the present bill is apparently to assist producers of agricultural products or other raw materials to find a market for their products," Mr. Mellon wrote, "and to do this by lending money to prospective buyers without adequate security or sufficient assurance of ability to repay principal and interest when due. I do not believe that such an extraordinary measure is justified by conditions.

"The emergency situation which existed in agriculture in 1921 has in a large measure passed and conditions are becoming more normal. Better machinery for distribution and marketing and more additional credit facilities may be necessary in order to establish the agricultural and livestock industries on a more stable basis, but the credits to be provided should, I believe, follow the lines indicated in the bill introduced by Senator Capper, which was passed in the Senate a day or two ago.

"I have already expressed the Treasury's views as to this bill, and the general agricultural situation, and in that connection have suggested that in so far as special relief may be necessary to meet emergency conditions that still remain as a result of the derangement of markets and depression in business, it should be provided by a further extension of the life of the War Finance Corporation for a limited period.

"By this means, rather than by a system of the demilitarized zone of thirty kilometers along the frontiers separating Turkey from Greece and Bulgaria, is expected to reduce to a minimum the opportunities for conflict.

The islands of Imbros and Tenedos pass finally to Turkish sovereignty, according to the terms of the draft, but have autonomous rights. Turkey recognizes the British annexation of Cyprus.

The Maritza River is fixed as a frontier between Turkey and Greece in Thrace. Turkey cedes Adrianople, but Greece gets the unfortified section of Karagatch. Turkey is opposed to this land arrangement. She is also hostile to the treaty draft provision under which the distribution of the capital of the Ottoman debt among Turkey and the detached territory must be ratified by the holders of Turkish bonds, who are chiefly foreigners.

The long heralded "final" session of the conference will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock in the quaint little town of Ouchy. Whether there will be a response to an ultimatum of a nature that will be equivalent to a rupture, or whether there will be a continuation of the negotiations which eventually may lead to peace, are many questions tonight.

The Turks are furious over the treaty as it stands.

"Have you read this treaty?" asked one Ottoman delegate of the correspondent as he emerged from his study this afternoon, pale and exceedingly exhausted.

"Well," he added, "look at the unreasonable conditions. They do Turkey up in a knot."

The Egyptian delegation tonight addressed a protest to the conference against the clause in the treaty by which Turkey is called upon to renounce all her rights over Egypt and the Sudan. Zaghlul Pasha, the Egyptian leader, during the meeting at one of the receptions would only permit Great Britain to have her way in Egypt. They appealed to the world to remember that the powers in 1919 proclaimed a willingness to establish peace on the basis of President Wilson's principles for the self-determination of peoples.

In addition to the two committees relating to the return of war prisoners and hostages and the adjustment of damages, a committee by Turkey and Greece on the Turkish debt was called into existence today to a special session, when a financial agreement was drawn up to return to Greece all ships seized from Greece held by Turkey since the Greek war in Asia Minor and the Greco-Turkish war. This protocol also provides _____ trade.

The Mosul dispute, which came up before the Council of the League of Nations in Paris today and which threatens to wreck the New Near East Conference, brought to the surface a bitter feud which served momentarily to split the diplomatic forces. One difficulty had been to determine what the Kurds in the Mosul region want. A Kurdish representative appeared at British headquarters here and confirmed the desire of the Kurdish people for autonomy.

"I am like the Turkish Government: I am like the British Government: I am like Arabian Government: I am like no Government. I am Kurdish."

the League, it constituted a danger of war.

"If there is a dispute of frontier," said Lord Balfour, "there is always danger of war; there is always an occasion which may ultimately be made the occasion for warlike operations whose limits no man can see, warlike operations which may bring in their train tragedies of unknown magnitude."

Reviewing Lord Curzon's appeal to the Assembly, Lord Balfour said:

"Unfortunately it was not at the time accepted by the Turkish representatives. There are still hopes that it may be accepted, and that the scheme, which is obviously fair, will meet not merely with the approval of France, Italy, Japan and Great Britain, but of Turkey itself.

"But I am afraid we have to contemplate an alternative possibility. I am afraid we cannot disguise from ourselves the danger that when this proposal comes formally and finally before the conference at Lausanne the Turkish representatives will not find it in accordance with their instructions to accept the proposal, however reasonable, however moderate it may appear to other people. We have to contemplate failure. How are we to parry the dangers which failure might conceivably bring in its train?

"The British Government has given most anxious thought to this question, and I think if the proper method be pursued there would be no further trouble. We could summon a special meeting of the Council to take any action deemed wise to safeguard the peace of the world.

"This means that the League would take no immediate action, but would await further word from the Turks.

Going into the general situation, Lord Balfour said:

"I repeat it clearly understood that it is only if the peace of the world is threatened as a consequence of what happens at Lausanne, or of what may follow what happens at Lausanne, that the Government proposes to take those steps mentioned. If there is no threat of breach of peace, if there is no attempt to invade Syria, if there is no threat of the occupation of Smyrna, I could hardly say to-day we will receive news from the British Government."

Turkey's Equality in League Proceedings.

Lord Balfour then laid stress upon the fact that if the Turks accepted the invitation of the League, Turkey would be admitted to the proceedings on a footing of equality with all League members.

Viscount Ishii replied that ideally the Council would ready to receive a call either to arbitrate the issue in case the Turks accepted arbitration or intervene if the situation is to be considered as a threat of war.

It is therefore possible that developments at Lausanne may bring Mosul again before the Council prior to its adjournment at the end of the week, or, if the French plan to prolong the conference succeeds, it may not come up again this session.

AMERICA TO HAVE MORE LEAGUE INVITATIONS

Will Be Asked to Join Conference on Customs and League's Hygiene Committee.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The Council of the League of Nations today decided to invite Washington to an international conference to discuss customs formalities. The invitations will not be restricted to members of the League, but will be extended to the United States, Germany, Mexico and Ecuador.

The question is one of great interest to all American traders doing business abroad, because the well-known difficulties presented by the unofficial differences in customs laws cause frequent delays and often, seriously hamper trade. It is one of the objectives of the League to suppress interference with the liberty and variety of the various countries involved. What is desired is to arrive at an agreement to make the formalities uniform throughout the world and thereby facilitate trade. That is why it is possible to invite to the conference the United States and other countries not belonging to the League.

While the conference will be unofficial, the countries receiving the invitations will be asked to name delegates. It is likely that the International Chamber of Commerce will be invited to send experts in order to supply expert advice.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The Council of the League of Nations today voted most of the recommendations of the Health Committee, although it postponed action on several disputed points in the administration of the sanitation under the new provisions. A good many private individuals, the ministers were filling up the morning Council session with the reading of the Paris papers, in the hope that they would find a satisfactory agreement without being obliged to indulge in conciliation or a full session.

The Lithuanian-Polish dispute will also come up again. Though the agents are mostly ready to go to Geneva conferences and other details of the administration of the Saarz region and Danzig, it is expected the Council will remain in session until Friday, at least.

The Council of the League decided today, at the suggestion of M. Viviani, to invite Dr. H. E. Cumming, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, to join the League's hygiene committee.

Dr. Cumming will also be asked to appoint the place of an international sanitary bureau, with headquarters in Washington, to co-operate with the League committee of the League.

VIEWS FRENCH ACTION AS DESERTION OF ALLY

London Daily News Says Paris Virtually Offers Separate Peace to Turks.

By Wireless to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The Daily News in an editorial says:

"The news which we have received from Paris is so grave that full comment must be withheld until the information obtained by our diplomatic correspondent is officially confirmed.

"His statement is that Ismidjin made its official debut on to bear out the attitude in the Temps that at the eleventh hour France has virtually effected a separate peace with the Turks. This decision is made credible by the circumstances of the suspense and costly adventure which France has undertaken in the Ruhr.

"The suggestion appears to be that her hands are tied in Central Europe, that she cannot face a new quarrel, and that, therefore, she must abandon her Allies to their fate. If that is the meaning of the Temps' article, it is a terrible blow to Europe and to France herself.

"It is not those arguments that the gallant and generous Frenchman of to-day has ever been a very intimate hearing upon one another. Is it not possible that there is a psychological factor growing largely out of the moral power which the United States might exercise in the world which might be exercised with great advantage in the present crisis?

broached the desirability of remaining in Lausanne without an adjournment, provided the Turkish answer to the treaty proved of a nature to warrant a continuation of the negotiations. They pointed out that an adjournment would be interpreted by the world as tantamount to a rupture.

Believe Ship With the French.

The British protest of tonight caused a tremendous sensation. It immediately affected general interest away from Near East peace negotiations to the question what would happen among the Allies when the conference resumed tomorrow. It is understood that the Italian delegation has adopted the same attitude as the French and will remain in Lausanne while there is any hope of making peace.

A delegate received by the French delegation at Ouchy Park tonight, following the decision of the delegates to remain here said that France did not consider the allied draft treaty definitive and that France was ever ready to make further concessions to the Turks, if necessary.

The Franco-British complication appeared to bring considerable satisfaction to Turkish circles here. The Turkish delegation was busily employed throughout the night in preparing counter-proposals to the draft treaty, with the idea of forcing the Allies to continue the negotiations without an adjournment of the conference.

Turks Prepare Counter Suggestions.

The Turkish delegates tonight informed The Associated Press that they were preparing counter-suggestions to the allied draft treaty. It was added that these suggestions might not be ready tomorrow, but Ismet Pasha would have them to shape the presentation within a few days.

The indications late tonight were that the Turks tomorrow would adopt an attitude which would place responsibility for a rupture of the negotiations upon the Allies. A statement is issued by them declares that the allied draft treaty not only contains many clauses of which the Turks never heard, but also many which in the opinion of the sub-commissions both signed and initialled the left out of the draft. The statement declares that the Turks are prepared to discuss "thoroughly the open door." In accordance with which the Turkish Government is required to consult the Council on the Ottoman Debt before granting concessions to Turks or foreigners.

It is indicated by the statement that the sub-commissions unanimously agreed to omit the clause giving privileged treatment to foreign merchandise in Turkish ports, but nevertheless the clause has been inserted in the draft treaty to the detriment of Turkish commerce.

"Generally speaking, says the statement, "the allied treaty is very far from anything we ever expected. The indemnity of a sovereign state, the abolition of all its financial autonomy, the control of all its finances, the establishment of a foreign police force, the fact that Turkey would be treated as inferior to Albania.

Of particular international interest is the clause in the allied draft of the treaty which would give to the Turkish Government the right to refer to the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague disputes arising between Turkey and the Powers. This is the clause which the Constantinople correspondents of the London Times declared is responsible for the failure of the conference to reach an agreement.

SURETYSHIP
is a Lever—

Archimedes, the master Greek physicist, expressed in plain language the age-old secret of multiplied power.

Suretyship is the lever of commerce and finance which moves the mighty business of the world. It multiplies the power of every great undertaking requiring guaranty of performance; it inspires a feeling of security in thousands of employers and a feeling of pride in thousands of their employees; it facilitates the business of governments; it safeguards widows and orphans, expedites the procedure of the courts, eases attachments on property and vacates libels on vessels.

In the days of primitive man bargains between individuals or tribes were supplemented by the surety of living hostages. Later, real estate—immovable property—became the true basis of all Suretyship. Corporate Bonds now stand in the place of personal Suretyship.

Behind Every Bond of stands their magnificent, unencumbered building, located in the very heart of the financial district of New York City and worth millions of dollars; and a reputation in the business and financial world inspired by thirty-eight years of prompt payment of just claims.

The multiplied power which your business will secure through the Bond of this Company is now at your service.

"So they are, Winnie, that's just why our company has the 'rubber shoe' veneers for the long haul—they protect us and our pals much better in this. W. G. ROCKEFELLER LEFT ALL TO FAMILY

Wife Gets One-Third and Five Children Share Residue Equally.

VALUE ABOUT $10,000,000

Widow Inherited More Than This From Her Father, Amos Gilman—Filed in Connecticut.

The will of William G. Rockefeller, head of the firm William Rockefeller, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, and co-heir of the late James Stillman, director of the National City Bank, was filed for probate yesterday at Greenwich, Conn., by the law firm of Shearman & Sterling of this city. The will gives the entire estate to his family.

Although Mr. Rockefeller maintained a residence in this city at 26 Madison Avenue, which was given to him and his wife, Elsie Stillman, by her father upon their marriage in 1894, and Mr. Rockefeller's death, due to pneumonia, occurred there on Nov. 20 last, his legal residence was in Greenwich, where he had a large estate. For that reason the will is to be probated there.

The will does not disclose the value of the estate and Shearman & Sterling declined to estimate it, because the valuation had not been made. The property left by Mr. Rockefeller, consisting largely of stocks, it is understood, will not be found to be worth more than $10,000,000. In recent years he had withdrawn largely from business activities, so that at the time of his death he was director only of the Standard Oil Company, of which he was Vice President, and director of the Imperial Continental Gas Company, the New York Mutual Gas Light Company, the Origon Short Line Railroad, the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company, the Union Pacific and the Consolidated Pacific Company, having been elected director of the latter only a few days before he died.

Wife and Five Children Heirs.

Mr. Rockefeller's will gave to his wife, Elsie Stillman Rockefeller, all his personal effects and created a trust for her benefit of the Greenwich property and a third of the residuary estate. The remainder of the estate is divided into five equal shares for the children, William A., Godfrey S., James Stillman, John Sterling and Alexis G. Rockefeller.

The will names Percy A. Rockefeller, brother, and William E. F. Griswold and Samuel F. Pryor, friends, as executors and trustees, and provides that upon the death of any one of them the United States Trust Company shall be substituted.

The testator directed that the share left to his wife "is in lieu of her dower in my estate," but provided that the entire income of all securities forming a part of any trust fund is applied for the benefit of the beneficiary for whom they are created, regardless of the price paid for stocks or other securities that at any time it may be necessary to sell in order to make distribution of the principal of such trusts; shall be applied as a sinking fund to offset the premium paid on the securities upon or realized upon sale of such securities.

The executors also are the trustees of the above trust for Mr. Rockefeller's wife, it is known that her inheritance from the estate of her father, Amos Gilman, is among those in custody of the legacy left her by her husband.

The Will in Full.

Mr. Rockefeller's will is in full follows:

I, William G. Rockefeller of the Town of Greenwich, Conn., do hereby make, publish and declare this my last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills by me made.

First—I give and bequeath to my wife, Elsie S. Rockefeller, all my books, pictures, works of art and jewelry, and all my personal ornaments, wearing apparel, household furniture and utensils, carriages, plate and linen, and also my automobiles, horses and other animals, harness, robes and blankets, saddlery, carriages, farming implements and machinery and all other articles of personal property belonging to me in any place, kept, stable or in any outbuilding thereof, or in part by me or my family occupied.

Second—I give and devise to my trustees hereinafter named all the following described real estate of the possession of which I shall die seized, situate in the Town of Greenwich, County of Fairfield and State of Connecticut, to wit:

All that tract or tract of land in the said Town of Greenwich, with the buildings thereon erected, including my residence, situated on the westerly side of Lake Avenue, containing about one hundred acres, more or less, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly line of Lake Avenue with the southerly line of Round Hill Road, and running thence southerly along said westerly line of Lake Avenue to the land now or formerly of Daniel E. Hoyt; thence westerly along said land of Hoyt to land now or formerly of Daniel E. Hoyt; thence southerly along said land of Hoyt to land now or formerly of Oliver T. Bigelow; thence westerly along said land of Bigelow to land now or formerly of Thomas Hoyt; thence northerly along said land of Thomas Hoyt to land now or formerly of Mary Hoyt; thence westerly along said land of Mary Hoyt to land now or formerly of Mary Hoyt; thence north

ROBS PARK AV. HOME POSING AS A BROTHER

Man With Two Suitcases, Left in While Kahn Family Is Away, Carries Off $10,000 Loot.

COUNTESS'S GEMS STOLEN

Wife of Timberlid, Hilton Polster, Loses $5,000 Worth of Jewels by False Finger Call.

A man who passed quite at ease in fashionable surroundings entered the home of the apartment house at 770 Park Avenue on Saturday afternoon and asked for Mrs. Ferdinand Kahn, whose husband is President of the Bethany Worsted Mills. When he was told that Mrs. Kahn had followed her usual custom of accompanying her husband to the Kahn country home at Bernardsville, N. J., for the Winter week-end, the visitor showed no dismay, though he did appear a bit puzzled.

He was Mrs. Kahn's brother, he explained to Thomas Willistead, an attendant, and Mrs. Kahn had been expecting him. He produced, rather carefully, a telegram, to which Mrs. Kahn's name was affixed and which expressed pleasure at his imminent arrival. Willistead said that he failed to note the names of the addressees when the stranger, with the air of taking him into his confidence in a little difficulty in which they were both concerned, allowed him a brief glance at the message.

The stranger lunched, then he groomed he might as well wait, and moved toward an elevator. Willistead took him to the twelfth floor, himself carrying up two heavily-laden suitcases that had accompanied the visitor to the door in a taxicab. Mrs. Gallagher, a floor maid, came to meet them. Willistead asked her to open Mrs. Kahn's apartment to admit her brother, and a moment later had ushered the visitor inside, set down the suitcases and left the man to withdraw the time as he saw fit.

At 10 o'clock that night the man emerged, carrying the same two suitcases, still heavily laden. Willistead had gone off duty. Joe Schwartz, who had replaced him, carried the suitcases out and surrendered them to Edward Reith, the doorman, who whistled for a taxicab. Handed the departing man for a 25-cent tip, and watched him roll away.

Employe Is Arrested.

When Mrs. Kahn got back to her apartment yesterday she found it strewn with newspapers and crumpled goods—evidently the ensemble contents of the suitcases. Away in these suitcases to replace the discarded bathtub had gone four fur coats belonging to Mrs. Kahn, a bracelet, a vanity case and numerous other trinkets and ornaments, as many in fact that Mrs. Kahn said that not until she had inventoried the whole place would she know just how much she had lost. Tentatively she put the value of the stolen treasures at $5,000 to $10,000. Of course she had been expecting no brother.

A telephone call to the East Fifty-first Street Police Station brought Detectives Lawin and Kenny. To them Willistead told the story of the man's visit. He insisted that he was not in collusion with the thief and stoutly maintained that he had been the innocent victim of a clever crook. The detectives, however, refused to believe his story, declaring that he knew more than he would tell. In the end they arrested him on a charge of grand larceny. A detailed alarm will be sent out for Mrs. Kahn's property as soon as she has determined what is missing and furnishes descriptions.

The apartment house at 770 Park Avenue occupies the block from Forty-seventh to Forty-eighth Street and runs back to Madison Avenue. Nathan L. Miller, ex-Governor, and many other notables live there.

Countess Timberlid Robbed.

Countess Arnoldo Timberlid, wife of the Court painter to the King of Italy, yesterday reported the theft of $5,000 worth of jewelry. A bracelet containing a cameo given by Empress Eulalie, famous actor, and a ring, the diamond of which came from King Humbert of Italy, completed the list. Detectives believed at about 10,000 were overlooked.

Recovering from a nervous breakdown since the week ago, the Countess, who is a French soldier, gave up her residence at 22 West Eighth Street and moved to share the apartment of Mrs. Charles D. Rosevelt, wife of the Rhode Island and nationalist, on the fifth floor of the apartment house at 730 West Seventy-second Street. Although she took away most of the gifts to the Count from his patrons, she took to the apartment a number of pieces which she had received from friends since recovering from her nervous collapse. Among these recently bestowed gifts were the diamond ring and bracelet, and a large Spanish shawl, worked by hand in China and about 200 years old.

Early on Monday, the maid, performing her morning duties, discovered on the floor of the Countess's room a number of the articles which had been taken. They were opened. The Countess and Mrs. Rosevelt were notified at the home and rushed to the apartment. It was found that the hand had all the diamonds, the cameo and the shawl were missing. The Countess and Mrs. Rosevelt were positive that the articles had been in the room on the night before. The telephone bell rang. The Countess said that she answered it and heard a man's voice, who said he was Count Boni Rosevelt, brother-in-law of Mrs. Rosevelt. He said he was in the city and would like to see the Countess. He gave no name or telephone number.

Call Police, Believe Ruse.

Both women, fearful that Mr. Rosevelt had been injured, hurriedly summoned a taxicab and went to the hotel. There they learned that the information call had not issued from the hotel. The women thought that possibly the message had been misunderstood and that it was from Count Rosevelt, so they went there, only to find that it had been received there. Still more puzzled, Mrs. Rosevelt telephoned to Police Headquarters and reported the theft. Detectives were assigned to the case. Count Rosevelt, who is a member of the Union Club, was informed of the robbery. Count Rosevelt, with a man, had been picked up by the police of Thirty-fifth Street and Broadway. A hurried checking up, however, showed that this had no connection with the Rosevelts.

The Countess and Mrs. Rosevelt then returned to the apartment. Getting no response to their ringing for the chauffeur, the women climbed the six flights of stairs and found the maid dead in the basement.

All of which left both with the deepest mystery. The Countess said: "Mrs. Rosevelt was speaking to Count Rosevelt when I arrived. Count Rosevelt was not at home. He was not expected home. When I left the house at 22 West Eighth Street I left my maid there. She was not ill. She was not expected to leave the house. She was not expected to leave the house. She was not expected to leave the house

SMITH WINS FIRST CLASH ON PROGRAM

Three Constitutional Amendment Measures Advanced Despite Republican Opposition.

LUSK LEADS OPPONENTS

Prospects Are That Bill Providing for Executive Budget Will Be Finally Defeated.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 25.—Governor Smith won the first skirmish today in the campaign for the enactment of the three constitutional amendments he has proposed. All the measures were advanced to third reading over Republican opposition and after a three-hour debate.

One of the amendments, which must be adopted by a Legislature with a different Senate before it can be submitted to the people for ratification, would give the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and State Controller, who would become the only elective State officials, terms of four instead of two years. Another provides for making the Secretary of State, Attorney General, State Treasurer and State Engineer appointive instead of elective officials and would transfer all or many duties and functions, boards, commissions and bureaus which perform the administrative work of the State under the present system.

The third provides for the adoption of the executive budget now in vogue in Washington.

Senator Lusk, leader of the Republicans in the upper house, led the fight on the three constitutional resolutions. He intimated that Republicans would unite in the fight with even greater vigor when the measures come up on third reading. The prospect is that two of the resolutions will go through at this session, while that providing for the executive budget may be delayed on third reading, both in the Senate and Assembly.

"This was the bill most ardently advocated by the Republicans. Before the debate opened Senator Walker, speaking for the constitution measures, offered a friendly amendment which in the opinion of many was subversive of the purpose of making executive budget effective. Under the resolution, as originally drafted, the Legislature would have power to eliminate and reduce but not to increase items in budgets established by the Governor. Under the terms of the Walker amendment the Legislature would be able to raise items as well as reduce them and add items as well.

Senator Lusk maintained that the resolution would do away with the present constitutional powers under which appropriations have. The Walker amendment provides for the legislative enforcement at the end of the fiscal year for which they were made.

"In the very first paragraph of the very first bill introduced at the present session the Democrats have thrust before the eyes of the people a measure which, if fully carried out, means the death blow to the Republican party in this State," said Senator Lusk. "The Republican leader. Under this bill one Administration could place a lien on future Administrations for a generation to come or more.

"He cited as an example a bill introduced at the present session under Democratic auspices and providing for a $100,000,000 appropriation for water power develop-to $5,000,000 becoming available im-

This ... will be in no [illegible] with legislative ... of that sort," [illegible] Senator Walker.

"Well, anybody aside from that, this thing reads more like a resolution of a debating society than a constitutional amendment," said Senator Lusk.

The proposal to give the Governor a four-year term was opposed by Republican Senator Wagner, Senator Farrell of Syracuse insisted that it was good for the people to get themselves out of their system every two years. Senator Walker protested that two years did not give to a governor a sufficient term to put his policies into operation. Senator Cordle remarked that former Governor Miller advocated a four-year term.

"Two years is too short for a good Governor and too long a term for a bad Governor," said Senator Lusk in closing the debate. "I have little faith in the power of the people to vote intelligently on submitting this proposal to the people, although I have doubt of the result."

While the resolution providing for reapportionment of the State Legislature was under consideration Senator Lusk proposed an amendment that would give to veterans of the World War and the Spanish War the same preference in the Civil Service that Civil War veterans now enjoy. The proposal was rejected on the ground two years ago and was then defeated decisively. The Lusk amendment was known to be an amendment of Senator Farrell which would have made the Attorney General an elective official.

FISCHER'S HOTEL BURNS.

Firemen Prevent Further Damage by Flames in Long Island Village.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Jan. 26.—Fischer's Hotel, its garage and store building shop, in Franklin Square, two miles east of Belmont Park, were destroyed by fire today, with damage of about $50,000. Firemen from this place and other nearby towns responded after a hard fight to prevent the flames from spreading.

There was no guests in the hotel when Dolce Fischer, proprietor, discovered the flames, which apparently had their origin in the shoe-repairing plant of Louis Cardozo, next door. The hotel, formerly known as Kelly's Hotel, figured prominently years ago in the longest shooting trouble of the old Hempstead Farmers' Light Guard.

SMITH REMOVES LAW FROM TAX BUREAU

them as they existed on a scattered agreement without a single law with the entire staff of agency of administration and of application, especially the Governor's well thought out plan and fairly drafted, never-ever intended to [illegible] Tuller and writers of opposition the State could be infinitely better off had it [illegible] at their origin there all of these different taxing agencies. There would at least be an understanding of what [illegible] was.

If you know any doubt in your mind about the attitude of Governor Miller's plan I will state you have to make it effective and because you did not do it and I [illegible] you openly refused the power to [illegible] it would be [illegible] and for the other reasons set forth in my bill of complaint and contained in this letter, I find you clearly guilty of a palpable neglect of duty and you are hereby removed from the office of Public Tax Commissioner and President of the State Tax Commission, and the office of your removal is duly filed.

Later tonight Mr. Law made public a statement in which he commented on the Governor's action as follows:

"The Governor has removed me, as he has undoubted power to do. I am not surprised because he announced he would do so before he heard my reply to the charges which I had filed. The charges which he has given are in some cases simply not so.

"The most reprehensible feature of this affair is that a large number of highly confidential reports which have been filed with me by the Tax Commission and which have been prepared at considerable cost to the taxpayers will probably be distributed among those who are not Democratic politicians. The administration of the department and the return to the people of the State will thereby be prevented. I have given no aid to the administration of the [illegible] work of the Department.

TO ASK REFERENDUM ON VOLSTEAD ACT

Republicans in Legislature Also Ready to Support Effort to Repeal Mullen-Gage Law.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 25.—Republicans in the Assembly will take the initiative this week in action to determine through a popular referendum what the real sentiment is among the people in this State on the question of prohibition and prohibition enforcement.

Assemblyman Joseph Steinberg of New York submitted tonight that he would be the sponsor for a bill which now is being prepared and under the terms of which the voters will have an opportunity to go on record at the general election this Fall for or against repeal of the Mullen-Gage State Prohibition Enforcement act.

"This is the only question now before the people of this State which is entirely free from politics," said Mr. Steinberg. "It is the matter of State enforcement we hold original jurisdiction where we have nothing to do directly with prohibition amendments to the Volstead act or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Under the terms of the bill that I will sponsor the question will be plainly put and the answer in my opinion will furnish a clear index on prohibition sentiment in this State. Any further appeal to prohibition enforcement by the State naturally would be against prohibition, to also. The record of that vote should afford a reliable guide for future legislation on the subject."

The measure prepared by Mr. Steinberg would require the approval of Governor Smith before it could go into effect. The Republicans, in the Assembly at least, appear to be determined that the Democrats, and Governor Smith in particular, shall not be allowed to ride into the prohibition issue which they raised during the recent campaign.

Governor Smith earlier in the day said that he would have the last word on any bill providing machinery for a referendum on prohibition, whether the question was repeal of the Mullen-Gage law or liberalization of prohibition to the extent of permitting traffic in light wine or beer.

"Will you send a message to the Legislature urging such a referendum?" the Governor was asked.

"I have nothing of that sort in mind at this time," the Governor replied.

The Assembly Judiciary Committee, it was announced today, will give a public hearing next Tuesday afternoon on the Donohue-Jackson amendments to the Volstead law in favor of modification of the present law. This measure was adopted by the Senate last night. Assemblyman Donohue notified newspapermen today that his resolution, or one to be reported by the committee,

Republicans in the Assembly say that they have given enough aid to the Democrats to enable them to put through both the Donohue resolution and a bill to repeal the Mullen-Gage law, but that the initiative must come from the Democratic Senate.

"I have no doubt that the resolution would be adopted by the Assembly," said Assemblyman Jones of New York. "I believe that every Republican representative from a New York City district and several Republicans from cities up the State will vote for it. I think there will be at least eighty, possibly ninety votes for the resolution. I also feel assured that there will be enough Republican votes to bring about repeal of the Mullen-Gage law."

The Republican Assemblyman will have a general conference on prohibition enforcement probably next week, but it is extremely unlikely, according to persons in a position to speak with authority, that any attempt will be made to bind Republican members through caucus action against repeal of the Mullen-Gage law.

C. R. CRANE IN NEAR EAST.

Sails From Egypt for Constantinople After a Visit to King Hussein.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Jan. 26.—Charles R. Crane, who is one of the Americans best known in the Near East, sailed today from Alexandria for Constantinople. He had been visiting King Hussein of the Hedjaz, whose guest he was at Jeddah.

Mr. Crane says Hussein is fully alive to the political construction which may be put upon his hospitality to the visitors, but takes the view that, as representative of a nation famous for its hospitality for a thousand years, he cannot lose cap to friendly traditions. Moreover, Hussein remarked, he could not see a man who had been a Caliph, whatever his present rôle, seek refuge in a non-Moslem land.

Mr. Crane, commenting on the Zionist effort to provide homes for Americans, said that Russia had better first provide homes for Russians, of whom at least 1,500,000 were scattered throughout the world, mostly refugees dependent upon foreign charity.

COMMITTEE NAMED ON HOUSE CONTESTS

Three Seats Legislative Seats From New York Districts, Claimants Among Them.

COAL EMBARGO SOUGHT

Bill to Be Introduced Allowing Women Voters to State Age as "Over 21."

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 26.—The Assembly today adopted a resolution offered by Assemblyman Janda, Republican, of Bronx, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, empowering the committee to appoint a subcommittee to investigate the claims of three contestants for seats in the lower house of the Legislature.

All the contested seats represent New York City districts. Morris Weinfeld, Democrat, has filed notice with the committee that he believes he is entitled to the seat now held by Sol Ullman, Republican, from the Ninth District. Mr. Ullman was declared elected by the narrow margin of six votes.

August Claussen, a former Socialist member of the Assembly who was recently reinstated by the vote by which he was expelled by Myer Alterman, Democrat, of the Seventeenth District. David Kemper, Republican, believes he is entitled to the seat held by John H. Conroy, Democrat, of the Ninth District.

Under a bill introduced by Senator Ryan, Democrat, of Troy, Judges would be prohibited from becoming delegates to political conventions or engaging in any political activities. The provision is made, however, that a Judge, if a candidate for re-election, may speak or write in favor of his candidacy.

Two-thirds of the personal estate, instead of the present one-third, would go to the widow, under a bill introduced by Assemblyman Crum, Democrat, of Sullivan.

The increasing from $500 to $800 a year of the maximum amount of a pension payable to a widow or dependents out of the New York City Fire Department relief fund was provided for in a bill introduced by Assemblyman McArdle, Democrat, of New York.

The State police would be eliminated from aiding in the enforcement of the State game laws, under a bill sponsored by Assemblyman Cole, Republican, of Herkimer.

A resolution asking Congress to declare an embargo on all coal shipments from the United States to foreign countries, except what is shipped in compliance with the terms of a treaty, was introduced by Assemblyman Rolfe, Democrat, of Kings. Consideration of the resolution was put over until next week.

The resolution was offered because of the present drastic coal shortage in New York State. As an example of what is said to be the "profiteering" that is being done along this line it would help conditions greatly throughout the State. With hundreds of people throughout the State almost begging for coal, it hasn't seem right to ship great quantities of it every day to foreign countries.

The creation of a joint legislative committee to investigate marketing conditions throughout the State and report back to the Legislature not later than Feb. 15, 1922, with recommended legislation, was provided in a resolution introduced by Assemblyman Hale, Republican, of Schenectady. The committee would be composed of three Senators and four Assemblymen, and $10,000 would be appropriated for the work.

Convinced that many young mothers believe it to their best interests they do not like to give their age, Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democrat, of the Bronx, will tomorrow introduce a bill providing that all the women will have to say regardless their age, when they cast their ballot is that they are over 21.

The subject was first called to the attention of Senator Dunnigan by members of the Bronx Girls' Club. They told the Senator they were sure many of the women back of the voting booths were voting because they thought it was the thing to do.

"Personally I can't see why we should make the members of the fair sex tell their age every time they vote," said the Senator. "A woman over 21 has the right to vote as a woman of 45, and why shld she be caught in the meshes of a law giving away any secrets about her age?"

Women Files Bankruptcy Petition.

Mrs. Carrie Smith, Inc., dealing in real estate, yesterday filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in the Federal Court. Mrs. Smith was the first woman admitted to membership in the Real Estate Board of New York. Liabilities were placed at $15,301, and assets, $2,222.

HUSBANDS' ASHES LOST, BUT WIDOW LOSES SUIT

Mrs. Alaine Parks Ankert, 80, Led From Court Weeping When "No Case" Is Found.

A woman who lost two husbands by death and a third and $5,000 by flight lost a case before Supreme Court Justice Burr yesterday and was led from the courtroom weeping. Her suit was against the United States Corrugating Company for $15,000 damages because of alleged indignities in getting for the ashes of her first two husbands.

Mrs. Alaine Parks Ankert, 80 years old, of 220 East 33d Street, was the plaintiff. Her first husband, Wilhelm Corbach, died in 1885, and her second, Mr. Parks, died in 1888. Six years after the latter's death Mrs. Parks decided to inter the ashes of both in a $10-pound block of French marble, bearing a compartment for her own ashes. The marble repposed in a niche in the Friars Point Cemetery, where a faithful servant and friend of Mrs. Parks decided to have a bronze wreath attached to the marble slab, with the servant's name repeating in the wreath. Then she married Ankert.

Mrs. Ankert brought her suit because when she made a visit to the cemetery to inspect the niche in which she expected to find the ashes of her two husbands and her servant, it was empty. She finally found the marble repository under a staircase.

In the course of her testimony Mrs. Ankert stated that Ankert left her and took $5,000 of her money with him. The court found that she had not made out a case.

STEEL INQUIRY HITS SNAG.

Trade Commission Attorneys Object to Use of Contract Documents.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Prosecution of the United States Steel Corporation's defense in the Pittsburgh plus case before the Federal Trade Commission struck a snag today, when attorneys for the commission objected to the Steel experts drawing conclusions from documents offered in evidence.

The fight started over hundreds of papers offered in evidence by Alfred Y. Winter, statistician of the Illinois Steel Company, subsidiary of the corporation at South Chicago. Mr. Winter said the exhibits showed all contracts of his company, except the 1908 one, where the Pittsburgh plus practice was not in operation.

E. E. Shilladay, attorney for the commission, objected to Mr. Winter's testifying about varying market prices and selling the contracts as evidence, on the ground that his testimony of the contracts did not take into consideration "quantity discounts, sometimes allowed large buyers, and protection interests, which the Government alleges gave the buyer the privilege of buying at a fixed price until the expiration of a specified time."

Mr. Winter declared he had never heard of the "protection interest."

John W. Bennet, examiner for the commission, reserved a ruling and placed the contracts in the commission's vaults until the matter is restored tomorrow.

GRANTS NEW TRIAL OF STOKES DIVORCE

Justice Bijur Rules That Judge Finch, Who Heard Case, Failed to Make Decision.

DECREE WAS NEVER SIGNED

Appeal to Be Regarded as Probable—Plaintiff Declares He Had Obtained New Evidence.

Supreme Court Justice Bijur yesterday granted the application of W. E. D. Stokes for a new trial of his suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes for a divorce, in which Justice Finch decided in September, 1921, after several months' trial, that Mr. Stokes had failed to make out a case, and awarded Mrs. Stokes a separation on her counterclaim.

Mrs. Stokes changed attorneys after the decision was made, because of her litigation to set aside the return of dower in her husband's realty, and no decree was ever presented to Justice Finch to be signed in accordance with his decision. Justice Finch was assigned to the Appellate Division by Governor Miller on appointment from the Supreme Court bench last Fall, and the Stokes decree was still undigested.

The application for a new trial was made on the ground that the courts had ruled that a Judge who had taken his seat on the Appellate bench was disqualified from signing any order or rendering any action in a case previously heard by him. Justice Bijur, who heard the case several months ago, handed down his decision yesterday finding that "the paper handed down by the learned trial Justice in September, 1921, was in fact and in law intended to be a decision in the sense in which that term is used." The Court held that the "paper" handed down by Justice Finch does not meet the requirements of the statute either in form or substance," and for that reason Mr. Stokes's motion was granted.

In the absence of Samuel Untermyer at Palm Beach, it could not be learned yesterday whether or not an appeal will be taken in behalf of Mrs. Stokes, but it is probable that there will. In his application for a new trial Mr. Stokes asserted that he had obtained newly discovered evidence which he felt would result in a different outcome of the trial. It is understood that Isidor Goldberg will again act as trial counsel for Mr. Stokes.

AT 81 SUES HER DAUGHTER.

Jury, However, Believes Younger Woman That Gems Were Gifts.

The unusual spectacle of a woman 81 years of age suing her daughter, 38 years old, for "jewelry,"—one piece of which she asserted she loaned to her twenty-seven years ago, was presented in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, before Justice Joseph Aspinall. The jury upheld the contention of the daughter that the gems were gifts and dismissed the mother's action. Mrs. Margaret A. Eldred of 256 Willow Avenue was the complainant. Mrs. Theresa Howe Lockwood of 17 Arlington Place was the defendant.

Mrs. Eldred said that in 1920 she loaned her daughter a diamond ornament valued at $1,500. Twelve years after she presented the loan to her daughter a diamond collar button and in 1918, she declared, she loaned her a ruby ring with seven small diamonds. She stated that when she demanded the return of the jewels several years ago Mrs. Lockwood refused to return them.

Mrs. Lockwood testified that her mother gave her the jewelry as gifts and substantiated this by asserting that a will made after the gift of the ornament made no mention of that article, which, according to the witness, proved that Mrs. Eldred knew at that time that she had relinquished her ownership.

BRAZIL REBELLION SPREADS.

Several Towns Are Reported Joining Rio Grande do Sul Revolt.

MONTEVIDEO, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—Notwithstanding semi-official dispatches from Rio Janeiro reporting the political situation in the State of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, as tranquil, information filtering through border towns indicates that part of the State is in rebellion against Governor Borges de Medeiros.

Several towns, including Cruzalta and Palmeiras, have revolted and, despite the local and State authorities, and rebel forces are reported to have attacked and captured Passo Fundo. The dispatches say that two battalions of federal troops went over to the rebels after they had a pitched battle with each other at the railroad bridge across Santa Barbara and Marcellino Ramos. The rebels are reported to have been aroused by the occupation of one of their number by the State authorities. Many families are fleeing across the Uruguayan border.

RENEW NEGOTIATION IN DRESS TRADES

Manufacturers and Workers Seek New Contract to Replace Expiring One.

CONCESSIONS ARE LIKELY

Employers Consent to Discuss All Demands, but Call End of Piecework Impossible.

The Association of Dress Manufacturers, Inc., and the Joint Board of the Dress and Waistmakers Unions, reopened negotiations yesterday with a view to drawing up a new contract to take the place of the one that expires tonight.

Negotiations were interrupted last of week work instead of piece work. The to enter a formal conference if the union insisted on demanding the introduction of week work instead of piece work. The policy was inaugurated, the union declared, because employers refused to discuss all demands, but at the same time the organization committee refused to discuss any of their suggestions to the introduction of piece work, which they said was impossible.

Both sides entered the meeting of the Hotel Astor determined to maintain peace in the labor [illegible] which employs 50,000 workers in this city.

Julius Hochman, general manager of the Joint Board of the unions, reported to 2,000 shop delegates last night at Beethoven Hall that little progress was made at yesterday's meeting, as the two demands were discussed. One was the demand of the union that the employer pay for one week instead of nine weeks, as at present. An employer under the present agreement takes one employee on trial for two weeks before deciding to keep them permanently. The union wishes to cut this period to a week. The second demand was that the right of the union to have its representatives visit the shops on certain occasions without being accompanied by members of the manufacturers' organization.

The conference will be resumed today. No strike orders were issued by either side by the union, and the shops remained open. It was also learned that preparations were being made by the union for eventualities, but no announcement of the next union meeting was made.

Circulars were distributed last night calling on waist operatives in non-union shops to join the union. There are said to be 6,000 waist operatives in non-union shops, and strikes in these establishments may be called in a few days for the purpose of strengthening the waist makers' organization.

E. Schmidmann, Patchogue, L. I., and H. H. Fletcher, Treasurer of the organization. Of the eleven members of the board seven were said to have been present. Others whose presence could not be established are the Rev. Frederick H. Comas of Rochester, the Rev. J. H. MacDonald, Norwich; the Rev. C. Arthur Lincoln, Brooklyn; the Rev. H. H. Murdock, Amsterdam, and Edward C. Miller.

Mr. Anderson gave out a typewritten statement in which he said:

"I have nothing further to say. I do not know what I shall have anything further to say. This matter has been reported to and acted upon by the Board of Directors of the League, to whom I am accountable. It is now in the hands of the board. That board has formally employed former Senator Edgar Tilman Brackett as counsel for the League, and the board will speak through Senator Brackett."

Will you discuss the reported withdrawal of the Rockefeller support of the league?" he was asked.

"No," Mr. Anderson replied, disposing him in inner office.

The luncheon and executive meeting began at noon and lasted until 4:30 in the afternoon. The gathering was held in one of a series of private dining rooms connecting by way of a private hallway with the waiting room on the second mezzanine floor. There is only one guest entrance to the dining room, the door of which was kept closed. Ex-Senator Brackett left by that entrance, saying in reply to a question that he had not noticed any evidence that Mr. Anderson would resign as Superintendent.

The appearance of Mr. Anderson coming up the stairs leading from the first mezzanine floor led to the discovery that the board members had adopted a flank movement by way of the service kitchen and service elevator to circumvent the wave of newspaper men waiting to learn of their action. Mr. Anderson declined to give any reason why the members had declined not to be interviewed.

Person Explains Position.

Following a perusal of the resolutions Acting District Attorney Perlmutter Person, in charge of the inquiry into the Phillips charges, made the following statement:

"My attention has been called to the resolutions adopted by the Board of Directors of the Anti-Saloon League of New York at the meeting today. I have already given my assurances to Mr. Anderson, ex-Senator Brackett, Mr. Anderson's counsel, and to the Rev. Dr. George Odell Greer, secretary of the board, as well as to Mr. Bernard Prosser, Jr., that in the investigation I was then conducting by this office nothing should be done which in any way involves the conduct of any other.

"It is the intent of this investigation that prohibitionists have in no way the slightest cause for fear in the conduct of any duties or activities on my part. Our purpose is to ascertain whether or not there has been any criminal wrongdoing by anybody connected with the league's affairs or work. That is the sum and substance of my work. Nothing in the prohibition cause or the prohibition cause.

"It is because we are endeavoring to conduct this investigation in that spirit that I will absolutely refrain in my capacity of the head of account of the league from heeding to anything regarding the general conditions made by the league or the general expenditures made by the league in the prosecution of its work.

Shadows Hostility to League.

"This investigation is not in any way to be regarded a manifestation of activity in opposition to the league or the cause. If any criminal act has been committed by any person connected with the league or active in its cause, in my opinion no greater service could be rendered the prohibition cause than to expose any such wrongdoing. Such exposure at least is due to the friends and supporters of the prohibition cause."

Mr. Person said that during the day Brackett & Lacy, with which law firm ex-Senator Brackett is associated, had been employed by Mr. Anderson to defend the interests of Mr. Anderson in the Phillips proceedings. He agreed to this, but declined to say if still continuing employment of Mr. Brackett by Mr. Anderson, and the relationship.

"Every person in legible manner [illegible] of the commissioner of Mr. Person said. "Their spirit of fair working in hand and of the highest conditions not likely good. However, as Miss Odell was on the job in the League's office perhaps she had better be interviewed."

Following her visit, Mr. Person announced that he was dubbed "the fair lady with Miss Odell. She will [illegible] assignment on the results of his second questioning of Miss Odell was:

"The appearance of some people is highly misleading."

Person Bookkeeper Appears.

A development yesterday was the unexpected appearance at the District Attorney's office of Miss Frieda J. Fahey of 607 East 169th Street, the Bronx, until July 1, 1921, head bookkeeper of the league, who said she was "requested" over a statement contained in a letter of recommendation written by Mr. Anderson for William Miller Fahey, the husband of Miss Fahey, the bookkeeper. In this letter, given out by Mr. Anderson, Person, in refuting Mr. Anderson's statement that he had been discharged by the league, declared that Mr. Anderson spoke of the young man's work in the highest terms and that he was "a splendid worker and a fine gentleman." Miss Fahey thought this statement involved by innuendo her employment standing and asked to be permitted to see Mr. Person.

Miss Fahey told one of Mr. Anderson's absolutely diskeeping in the affairs of the office and of other matters of which I will not make mention at this time. She was a helpful witness and was entirely frank to the extent she could and was.

Miss Fahey said Miss Fahey exhibited a letter of recommendation which she said Mr. Anderson gave her when she left the employ of the League. She left this letter with Mr. Person.

Not Surprised, Says Phillips.

G. Bertrand Phillips declared last night that he was not surprised that the directors of the league had endorsed and approved conditions in William H. Anderson. He went on:

"I shall in no way be influenced by it. If they find it clear of all the incompetence that they have taken the proper course, the possible responsibility involved is alone theirs.

"As is widely known now, certain facts came to the notice of the District Attorney from sources independent of me, facts which the District Attorney felt required investigation by his office to ascertain whether there were which he have sworn to uphold the law. I am content to let my record without consolation, in obedience to the primary obligation resting upon every citizen.

"Judging from the published reports in the newspapers, this inquiry concerns not me and affects me not at all. My personal significance lies entirely in the fact that the District Attorney's office, I have full faith in the integrity and of the conclusions of the District Attorney's staff to do the same under circumstances. Mr. Person has my sympathy and I will be glad to help him in any way I can. I will be glad to help the District Attorney's office in any way I can."

Following her visit to Mr. Person's office Miss Fahey said: She said that in the office of the league she had been employed by Mr. Anderson and by Miss Odell, who both [illegible] as efficiency, and said ability.

There would at least be an understanding of what [illegible] was.

If you know any doubt in your mind about the attitude of Governor Miller's plan I will state you have to make it effective and because you did not do it and I [illegible] you openly refused the power to [illegible] it would be [illegible] and for the other reasons set forth in my bill of complaint and contained in this letter, I find you clearly guilty of a palpable neglect of duty and you are hereby removed from the office of Public Tax Commissioner and President of the State Tax Commission, and the office of your removal is duly filed.

Later tonight Mr. Law made public a statement in which he commented on the Governor's action as follows:

"The Governor has removed me, as he has undoubted power to do. I am not surprised because he announced he would do so before he heard my reply to the charges which I had filed. The charges which he has given are in some cases simply not so.

"The most reprehensible feature of this affair is that a large number of highly confidential reports which have been filed with me by the Tax Commission and which have been prepared at considerable cost to the taxpayers will probably be distributed among those who are not Democratic politicians. The administration of the department and the return to the people of the State will thereby be prevented. I have given no aid to the administration of the [illegible] work of the Department.

FIVE BIG MANSIONS BURNED IN IRELAND

William Ivishe Sir Horace Plunkett and Lord Mayo, Both Members of Dublin Senate.

REBEL CHIEFTAIN CAPTURED

Liam Deasy and a Cork Battalion Are Reported Taken—Royds, Queen Victoria Paris Agency.

Cable to The New York Times.

DUBLIN, Jan. 30.—Fire raids are happening and spreading throughout the Free State. Residences of wealthy people who have shown sympathy with the British occupation and of other prominent persons connected with the Free State Government, the public services and newspapers are established daily quota for arson, looting and arrest.

Among the latest attacks of this kind were three last night against leading Dublin newspapers. One newspaper's premises was destroyed, a fire bomb placed under the house of another proprietor was detected before it exploded, the last copy of another director was burned and in another case the house itself was blown up by a mine.

Last night, too, a fine old mansion at Palmerstown, County Kildare, the property of Senator Lord Mayo, was looted, the occupants ordered out and the house and its contents destroyed.

At Milltown a house close to Castle Bellingham, County Louth, was raided by a large armed band, who ordered out Major Barrow, the owner, his wife and servants, sprinkled the rooms with petrol and looked on while the flames consumed one of the finest residences in that county. Major Barrow, his four children and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Wadsley Butler, were spectators of the destruction.

At 1 o'clock this morning at Kilmurgh, the beautiful country house of Sir Horace Plunkett, Foxrock, County Dublin, was given to the flames. Visitors to-day were watching the smouldering ruins of the building, which was one of the most historic mansions in the suburbs of Dublin, filled with valuable collections of pictures, books and objets d'art.

When the marauders arrived the occupants, including Sir Horace Plunkett's daughter, caretaker and chauffeur, were told that the house must be destroyed. A heavy charge was prepared, and after placing a considerable explosive and incendiary material in the centre of the building, which was one of Sir Horace's favorite residences, the party withdrew to a safe distance.

Sir Horace is a Senator of the Free State.

Sir Horace Denies Political Motive.

Special to The New York Times.

RANSICK, Wis., Jan. 30.—Sir Horace Plunkett, of the Rathfarn Club after taking part in conference in the Capitol today in honor of the late Charles McCarthy, said of the raid at Foxrock, in reply to questions:

"I know nothing about it except what is in the newspapers here. I have no reason to suppose that there is any political significance in it. For the last two and a half years, I have been in politics, and if it had been political it would have happened before. I imagine the house was occupied at the time by my private secretary and perhaps two or three servants.

Sir Horace added facetiously that while it so happened the house was a very fine one, the occupants were not as comfortable as would have been the occupants of some poor man's cottage dwelling, and he was glad to know that accidentally no one was injured.

Report Liam Deasy Captured.

DUBLIN, Jan. 30 (Associated Press).—It is reported that Liam Deasy, who is alleged to have shared with Liam Lynch the supreme control of the Irish republican forces, has been arrested and is now in the custody of the national army authorities.

It is officially announced from Cork that the members of a republican column, numbering 42, were captured by Free State forces while attending a dance in the Ardgiln district, near Fermoy, in Northern County Cork. The complete of destruction being carried on by the irregulars has resulted in a ground of Free State forces being placed along the Great Northern Railroad from Dublin to the Ulster border.

The authorities, it is stated, also are contemplating the creation of a Mosstown cordon.

The Irish Trade Agency in Paris has passed into the hands of the irregulars, owing to "the tendency of the late trade agent," the Dail Eireann was informed today by Desmond Fitzgerald, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The Minister of Education, Professor John MacNeill, said some of the Free State teachers had been imprisoned and directions given to the schools to appoint other teachers.

It was announced by Richard Mulcahy, Minister of Defense, that the bodies of men executed by the Free State would not be handed over to their relatives.

CORK, Jan. 30.—The managers of the local theatres and motion picture houses have been ordered by the republicans to close their places of entertainment without executive take place.

The Government commandeered, coupled with an order that all men attending the republican executive would be arrested on a charge of aiding the irregulars.

CABINET MEMBERS GOING OUT ON TOUR

Inspection and Inspection Trips Will Not Lose Sight of Political Advantages.

TRAVELING ALSO MAY TRAVEL

Just Chance This Summer, Say Party Friends, Before the 1924 Campaign Begins.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—After the adjournment of Congress many Administration officials will turn traveling men and go before the country through the middle of vacation trips, tours of inspection and appearances at conventions, historical celebrations and other entertainments. It is apparent that political campaigns will not be overlooked.

Secretary Weeks is hopeful of leaving early in March on an inspection tour of virtually every important military post in the country and possibly the Canal Zone and Hawaii. He is desirous of a more intimate touch with matters affecting, and this may result in a stop in Porto Rico, where there has been a political tempest over Governor E. Mont Reily.

Secretary Denby, if he can, will go to observe the maneuvers of the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleets in the Pacific. These will be the most ambitious peace-time operations ever planned by the Navy Department.

Secretary Hughes has not yet given up his plan to go to Chile to attend the Pan American Conference.

President Harding's movements depend almost entirely upon Mrs. Harding's health. For two Summers Mr. and Mrs. Harding have been disappointed by having to give up plans for a trip to Alaska. The President is convinced that changes must be made in the administration of that territory, and he wants to familiarize himself with Alaskan conditions before making recommendations to Congress.

This Summer will be virtually the President's last opportunity to make a tour of the country before the 1924 pre-convention campaign and a prospective Democratic session of Congress next Winter. In view of this he has been urged by Republican leaders that he visit as many parts of the country as possible and, if necessary, the Administration's answer to the attacks made upon it. This plan has been urged upon him regardless of whether or not he is a candidate in 1924 he has been told that the party cannot afford going" before the country on the record of his Administration.

Since it has been announced that the President would visit Florida in March there has been considerable activity by residents of that State to get him to visit their localities. Offers of banquets and homecomings have deluged upon the White House. But the President is going to Florida for a rest and to give Mrs. Harding an opportunity for quiet in which to recuperate her health. The indications are that if any invitations are accepted outside their itinerary it will be because more seclusion will be assured.

Church of England Assembly Defers Consideration After Lively Debate.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The National Assembly of the Church of England decided today to postpone until next July consideration of the proposal to revise the Book of Common Prayer.

This decision was reached after a lively debate, in which the Deans of Westminster and York suggested that consideration be deferred at least a year.

The Bishop of Durham declared that the work of England should fulfill the historic office of rescuing the Church from Low-Church influence.

Women Lose Jewels and Furs in the Custom House at Cherbourg.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Several American passengers landing from the Olympic at Cherbourg last Friday were victims of a series of thefts in the Custom House.

Miss Helen Berg of New York had her coat on a railing in the Custom House while she wrote a telegram. It disappeared while she wasn't looking.

The Cherbourg police are in search of robbers who committed similar thefts several months ago, afterwards swindled on passengers on transatlantic liners.

WILL STORE GRAIN TO RELEASE CARS

Railroads Allowed to Put 1,000,000 Bushels in Brooklyn Barge Canal Elevator.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 30.—More than 1,000,000 bushels of grain held by shippers for temporary storage in the Barge Canal elevator at Commerce Slip, Brooklyn, in order to relieve for use in transportation of commodities 1,000 grain cars now in New Jersey railroad yards, it was announced today by Edward E. Wallis, Superintendent of Public Works.

Decision to permit grain storage in the railroads in the Barge Canal elevator, Mr. Wallis said, came after a telegraphic appeal from F. D. Underwood, President of the Erie Railroad, to Governor Smith, stating that the railroad was facing a serious car shortage unless it was relieved of the congestion in the line of necessary cars and transportation.

Governor Smith referred the matter to Superintendent Wallis, who gave authority for use of the elevator, and it was a public holiday when the Wallis letter was received. This was by the railroads in lieu of emergency where such use did not interfere with canal commerce.

Mr. Wallis announced today the appointment as Superintendent of Canal Repairs of John McCann of Rexford for Section 2, extending Oswego, and Henry M. Little of Waterford for Section 3, northern Oneida.

NO TRACE OF LAUTMAN DISCOVERED BY POLICE

Wife of Pittsburgh Buyer Who Disappeared Last Week With $50,000 Returns Home.

Although police all over the country had been directed to be on the lookout for Mortimer E. Lautman, the missing general merchandise manager of Kaufmann Brothers of Pittsburgh, no trace of him was found yesterday. His wife, who came here to aid in the search, returned to her home in Pittsburgh during the day. Members of his family indicated that he was innocent of any wrongdoing.

Word was received here that Sol Michaels, a furs manufacturer of 108 Broadway, who charges that Lautman never accounted for $50,000 he gave him to buy furs, is in Kaufman's direction, and decided to remain in Pittsburgh for a few days in an effort to determine whether he could not recover some of the money from property left by Lautman. Benjamin A. Hartstein of 257 Broadway, Michaels's attorney, is expected to return to New York today.

TOO HAPPY TO LIVE LONGER.

Reason Given by a Paris Bride Who Killed Herself and Husband.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Because she was so happy she was afraid her happiness could not last, a woman killed her husband and then herself, after only three days of married life.

M. and Mme. Lisbonet, who lived in a Paris suburb, were found dead in bed this morning. It was apparent from an examination of the bodies that the wife had shot the husband through the head and then shot herself. The suicide pact was plausible. Those who knew the bridegroom only three days ago, find that couple were known to be devoted to each other. Financial difficulties could not supply the reason, either, for Lisbonet was comfortably off.

The tragedy, evidently supposed to be thoroughly mysterious until a letter was found in the wife's housewriting, in which she announced her intention to act as she did, saying that her happiness was so great that it was impossible that it could continue much longer. Therefore, the thing was to end today from before it ceased.

GREET JAPANESE SILK MEN.

Visitors to Exposition Is Entertained at Luncheon.

The members of the Japanese Silk Mission, which has come to attend the Silk Exposition opening at the Grand Central Palace on Feb. 5, were guests at a luncheon at the Hotel Commodore yesterday given by the Managing Director of the exposition. In a speech to the visitors James A. Goldsmith, President of the Silk Association of America, urged co-operation between the two countries in distributing the raw materials and the finished product.

Kenzaburo Kishi, who heads the mission, declared that Japan furnished 80 per cent. of the silk fabrics in the world today, and that 90 per cent. of their production is sent to that country. He said that Japan owed much of its success to the industry in the co-operation of America.

The foreign delegates to the exposition will be guests at a dinner this evening at the Hotel Biltmore, and tomorrow a luncheon will be given for the Chinese delegation at the Hotel Commodore.

WITHDRAWS RESIGNATION.

Rube R. Fogel Annoyed Canadian Club Will Not Exclude Jews.

Rube R. Fogel of R. R. Fogel & Co., manufacturing jewelers of 152 Broadway, yesterday withdrew his letter of resignation from the Canadian Club of New York. The letter, which refers to the club, an organization of 1,400 members, following a meeting of thirty-seven members at which Mr. Fogel understood the club had decided upon the exclusion of Jews, President Albert Oliver of the Canadian Club denied such a policy had been adopted and wrote Mr. Fogel, asking that the letter of resignation be withdrawn. Mr. Fogel's reply to President Oliver follows:

"Your kind letter of the 26th instant received. In accordance with your suggestion, I am perfectly willing to forget what has occurred, and, therefore, ask that my letter addressed to the club members be returned to me."

Mr. Fogel said that he now regarded the incident closed.

Picture Gives $150,000 for Institute.

Approximately $150,000 has been subscribed by the music purchasers of America to begin development of the Institute Plan, according to an announcement yesterday by Thomas E. Wilson, Chairman of the Plan Commission of the Institute of American Music Purchasers. The plan, he said, would provide for "the ultimate development at Chicago of a combined educational institution, research institute, trade association and industrial museum."

Wrong Mrs. Valentino Named.

It was erroneously stated in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday that R. vgc Mrs. Rudolph Valentino No. 2" who had failed to appear in Traffic Court to pay a fine for a taxicab chauffeur for speeding. It should be "Mrs. Rudolph Valentino No. 1." The taxicab driver in question failed to pay the fine of $25 after the case was dismissed by Magistrate Nash. Mrs. Valentino is a Mexican dancer whom he was accused for speeding. When Mrs. Valentino failed to pay the fine of $25 the driver was sent to the Tombs for three days.

Edward Kanner Freed.

Edward Kanner, a taxicab chauffeur of 215 East Seventy-seventh Street, was discharged for lack of evidence when he was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Nash. Levine in the Tombs Court on an assault charge, growing out of the injury to Edward Lapin, 20, of 204 East Seventy-sixth, who was struck by Kanner's machine on Broadway and Claremont Street on Jan. 24.

AUTO MOTOR CASE SETTLED IN COURT

Company Will Pay the Commonwealth $1,500,000 and Reform Clean Bill of Health.

NO FRAUD, SAYS OFFICIAL

Philadelphia Concern's Will Not Pay Income of Car Fan Gets All Their Claim.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—The controversy between the Commonwealth and the Quaker City Motor Car Company will be settled for $1,500,000, according to an announcement yesterday by Attorney General Alexander Simpson Jr., of the Public Service Court, and the Commonwealth will have the necessary papers ready to pay the settlement of equity suit, which, according to James G. Blaine, attorney for the Detroit Trust Company, trustee, is the largest settlement of the kind ever made.

Representatives of the Commonwealth, the company and several creditors met in the court room this morning, although Mr. Blaine, Attorney General Alexander Simpson, in charge of the Liberty Chevrolet case, said the company had to pay a clean bill of health and no fraud action was contemplated.

The Government originally demanded $3,000,000 from the company, alleging misrepresentation for the establishment of assessments. It was asserted that the company built a great automobile factory for Government expenses, raised the money on such Liberty motor bonds, $3,000,000 in the aggregate, $1,575, and made 700 per cent. on the money it invested.

It never today Mr. Palmer said to Public Trustee:

"After an audit of the company's books the Government realized that there was no juggling of figures. We were given every freedom to investigate the books by officials of the company and by auditors.

"We have found no fraud in the operations of the company and we should not be justified in the absence of fraud in holding Motor Car Company to the payment of the assessment of the Commonwealth. We have decided the character of the case, including the Government in making the settlement, and found there to be no consideration and nothing to be gained by the Government by further litigation.

"The bonds which were bought at their par value have been redeemed by Henry Ford & Son, and other secured claims have been satisfied to the extent of 100 per cent. Including the amount available to pay off creditors in short order. Payment to the Government of $1,500,000 will leave about $1,000,000 to the 600 stockholders of the Lincoln Company. Other claims, when the last receiver's report is approved, amounting to $1,000,000, will remain under consideration. The preferred claims were wiped out in the bankruptcy sale.

DAUGHERTY ATTACKS SALE OF COAL STOCK

Raises Question of Good Faith in Transfer of Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Company.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—Attorney General Daugherty filed in the Federal District Court today a petition raising the question whether the proposed sale of the stock of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company to the Jackson R. Boyer Syndicate of New York was made in good faith.

The stock of the coal company, which is owned by the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, was ordered sold under the United States Supreme Court decree for the dissolution of the Reading interests. The Jersey Central is controlled by the Reading company. The petition asks that any and all evidence relating to the proposed sale be heard.

When the Federal Court was asked to confirm the sale to the Boyer syndicate Attorney General Daugherty objected on the ground that a bill by the Pennsylvania Corporation of Philadelphia was a better one. All objections were withdrawn, with the exception of those entered by James Paul Jr. of Philadelphia, minority stockholders in the Jersey Central.

One of the principal objections of the Pennsylvania bill was that Judson F. Kaufman, head of the syndicate, who controls the Jersey Central and the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company, received "inside information," and that many members of his syndicate were disqualified from purchasing the coal stock.

Briefs on the Boyer objections were presented several times.

DEFY COURT, FREE SLAYER.

Parents, Told to Convict Husband of Manslaughter, Acquit Him.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Jan. 31.—Query of instructions from the Court to bring in a verdict of manslaughter, the jury acquitted Ralph Rovito, an Italian charged with the murder of his wife in their home last August.

"I am sorry to say, gentlemen, that I do not agree with you. You are discharged until Wednesday," said Justice Samuel Kalisch, upon hearing the verdict. In his charge to the jury, the Court said:

"There is no such thing as the unwritten law. It is not believed that the code of Italian will be used as a verdict for manslaughter is returned."

Joseph disappeared Dec. 1. He drove his fiancée to her home in Lake Avenue, but did not return to his own home. His automobile was found abandoned the following day in Michigan Avenue, Philadelphia. Relatives recently received over the 'phone by the Gross family requesting the sending of detectives to Newark.

MISS SHUSTER WEDS DESPITE OBJECTION

Daughter of Bakery Company President Surprises Her Bride of Williams Month.

MOTORED TO ROCKVILLE, MD.

Couple Had Met in Washington—Papers Were Often Sought in Three States.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30—Miss Carolyne Shuster, 20-year-old daughter of W. Morgan Shuster, President of the Century Publishing Company of New York, and William Month, son of a Chicago (O.) merchant, whose attempted elopement last September was frustrated, were married yesterday in Rockville, Md. This was made known today by the couple, who are registered at a hotel here.

They announced their intention of leaving for Florida, where they will spend several weeks of their honeymoon.

Monday, who is 22 years old, came from Florida last Friday and met Miss Shuster in Washington, whither, it is said, she had travelled to be married at Fredericksburg, Va., but was prevented from doing so by her parents. They had intended to be married at Fredericksburg, Va., because of the more favorable marriage laws of that State. Then they decided to be married in Tennessee, and while waiting for a connection to take them there Miss Shuster, a student at Sharon, Pennsylvania, Junior College, visited friends in Washington. Miss Shuster is still under age.

Miss Shuster left the school. Month had rendered an effort to get them together if he would bring back the couple's marriage license.

Mr. Shuster, the bride's father, was Treasurer General of Public Buildings under Taft's Administration.

GLASGOW, Ky., Jan. 30—At the close of the second day's observance of the eighty-first anniversary of Miss Caroline Shuster and William Morris Miss Shuster was not expected to leave semi-delirium, and it appeared that she had escaped injury in the collision of trains in Kentucky, Dr. Shuster and Thompson was brought by her relatives to find the couple.

The dispatch accompanied by a boy friend of Morris, were surprised in a hotel at Glasgow Junction, Wednesday night until Saturday morning, and finally were found in a village eight miles from Glasgow.

HORNE FOR BETTER TERMS.

Says Britain Spent $1,000,000,000 More Than Debt Total Here.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—"Great Britain will pay her debts to the United States, and pay them in full, but we are entitled to a bargain just counting them that arranged during the war," said Sir Robert Borden, ex-Chancellor of the British Exchequer, at a joint meeting of the Canadian and Montreal Clubs today.

"It would always be to the interest of Great Britain," continued, "that Great Britain did not get money for the loan obtained from the United States. This was represented for the most part by goods and war material. Now only did Britain leave the amount of the loan in cash in the United States, but the total amount of money spent there for supplies and the like by her members of the British debt to the United States by $1,000,000,000."

Referring to the refunding of the British loan, Sir Robert pointed out that the rate of exchange was much in the same as when the debt was incurred. If a full return of the debt were made now, he said, Great Britain would be paying more than she had originally intended.

Law Docketader Hurt in Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Jan. 30.—Law Docketader, veteran janitor, was removed from the Hotel Klein to Middlesex General Hospital, suffering from injuries received when he fell on the ice while returning to his hotel last night from Kelly's Star Theatre, where he has been playing. It was at first reported that the old theatrical favorite had been seriously injured, but later in the day Dr. E. L. Crook reported that he was suffering only from shock and back strain. Today it was thought advisable to remove him to the hospital so that he could have constant care and complete rest.

CARNARVON TELLS OF BEAUTIES FOUND

to a dark brown. In spite of its fragility we hope that, between two sheets of glass, it may be preserved to live many years yet. From its size it appears to be a child's glove. Some suppose that it was the property of King Tut-ankh-Amen when a baby and that it had been tenderly preserved, but probably known, but as I expect enough to say here much time glasses are in the habit of shrinking in the course of three thousand years. Anyhow, I conjecture that it must be the oldest glove of which there is any record.

For the moment I must content myself with mentioning these few things, but I cannot close without speaking to the magnificent work which Mr. Carter has done in unearthing the whole procession of the funeral of three successive kings. All of the stuff is superb of their best, and I believe the result will be commensurate with all the trouble, thought and thoroughness which they have lavished on the work.

In connection with Lord Queensberry's letter to his staff, it should be explained that during his absence in England Howard Carter and his able assistants worked most indefatigably to clear the superincumbent and prepare the way for opening the second wall of the inner chamber. It has been a most difficult and anxious time for all concerned, especially for Mr. Carter, on whom the responsibility rested.

Most of the objects dealt with were in an extremely fragile and friable condition. The wood, in which they are in the chamber made in many cases all to pieces there, since in many cases they supported each other, and removing one meant propping up several others which it was difficult to get at until the supporting object had been removed. Sometimes, by and large, the condition of their substances, they were glued together. Further, the narrow passages, low entrances and dilapidated steps to the tomb combined to render their withdrawal to the outside a very delicate process.

Thanks, however, to the infinite care, patience and skill of the little brigade of workers, everything that up to date has been handled has been removed without any damage. The last object, and most cumbersome one to be removed, namely, the Shrine" ornamental couch, with images of the goddesses Isis and Nephthys at the head and foot, with a shrine which surrounded the sarcophagus of the large central which withheld the question. At the present moment there remain in the ante-chamber only the Ushabtis and Ushabtis materials, cardboard, four chariots, two statues and one or two smaller objects. It must be understood, however, that the work is not yet by any means finished, as the corridor and chamber are in a condition which necessitates a considerable amount of treatment before they can be handed over for removal.

Mystery Shrouds Inner Chambers.

Meanwhile, the opening of the next chamber must wait. What exception every one's mind just now is speculation as to what is in the next chamber. Is there a tomb, and a tomb, and a tomb? Is the very next one the real tomb? Is the mummy there, or have we to look to others beyond. No one knows.

It is impossible not to be impressed here with the extremely friendly, even affectionate, attitude of the native Egyptians of all classes toward Lord Carnarvon. Every one knows him and every one obviously is glad to see him back. It is a refreshing contrast to the attitude of some of the Egyptian papers elsewhere, which have been assailing him for political purposes with the grossest bitterness. The fact is that because the evil acquainted with Lord Carnarvon and knows especially that he likes them, the Ideal Egypt and the Egyptians and is their staunch friend.

Mr. Carter has also spent the greater part of his life in Egypt, understands the people and likes them and, as always, liking begets liking.

Legends in the Weaving.

Already in this land of superstition myths are beginning to grow up. All sorts of supernatural explanations are given as to how Lord Carnarvon was directed where to dig to find Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb, and there is a wealth of Mr. Carter's country and the others. It is a fact that Mr. Carter had a canary, and that sometime about the date of the discovery of the tomb a cobra got into his house, climbed on to the table where the cage was and killed the canary, being later found in the cage and killed in its turn. Out of this, the most fantastic stories are being manufactured.

The cobra is an ancient symbol of Egyptian royalty and as such the ancestor of King Tut-ankh-Amen in the fourth year of his reign, to their headdresses, so it has been easy to weave a legend that brought in the little bird, which to some was symbolical the malevolent spirit of civilization, and the cobra, which stood for the powers of the old dynasties, the wrath of the ancient gods guarding the tomb in death. Mr. Carter's proper jest. Already there is an inclination to speak of the tomb as "the tomb of the bird."

Today all is quiet in the Valley of the Kings. Nothing is being done at the tomb or in the laboratories. Therefore, according to Immortal local custom, being the biggest weekly holiday to enable the laborers to attend the sports and market, which is held on that day in Luxor.

NEW DISCOVERIES RUMORED

London Hears, but Cannot Confirm, Reports of Finds at Asuat.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The Daily Mail says that rumors have been circulating freely in Egypt during the last few days concerning a great discovery which, if the reports should prove to be well founded, may rival in importance those in the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen.

The source whence these reports proceed is in the neighborhood of Asuat, where a party is working for Professor Phillips Lyons, Representative in the United States Office of Egypt.

The report, emanating, as it does, from a Daily Mail Reporter.

The latest letter I have had from my friends in Egypt reports quite satisfactory progress, but nothing of a sensational character."

FAMINE IN DAGHESTAN.

American Relief Administration Plans to Aid Starving Nations.

MOSCOW, Jan. 30 (Associated Press).—The Daghestan Republic, a tiny nation of Soviet mountain tribes on the northeastern slope of the Caucasus, is starving and without medicine, M. Semashko, its President, has informed Captain Cyril J. Quinn, acting head of the American Relief Administration. As a result of a conference between the two men, the relief organization has agreed to help Daghestan.

The population of this out-of-the-way republic is chiefly Mussulman, and because the women, having practically no clothing, are without veils to hide their faces, they go about the streets only after dark.

The Relief Administration is arranging to open feeding stations on the coast with shore of the Caspian Sea, which can be reached only by trails back over the mountain trails.

Semashko reportedly told Captain Quinn that 250,000 cases of tropical malaria existed in his country, while 250,000 persons were starving. He said that sixty-three districts were stricken in the small area of 50,000 square miles of rough country that make up the nation.

The presence of mountains in the mountainous wilderness has resulted in a flood of applications from adventurers from workers for the NCRC assignment.

"Y" STARTS $250,000 DRIVE.

Plans Made at Dinner to Get 10 Per Cent. of Budget for Work Here.

Committeemen and leaders, representing 20,000 members of the New York City Y. M. C. A. attended a complimentary dinner at the Hotel Commodore last night, to open the annual financial campaign. The amount sought is $250,000, or 10 per cent. of the annual budget, $2,500,000, which is the operating cost of all the thirty "Y" centers in the city. Participating members provide 87 per cent. of the total, and endowments furnish 3 per cent., it was reported.

Various divisions of the association's work were described in short addresses. Motion pictures of the association's work were shown.

Your Brain Power

Is your brain running on high gear or low gear? Have you the pep, fire and fervor to enable you to dominate every situation

An EDITORIAL by Bernarr Macfadden

MANY imagine that the brain is all spirit. That it is entirely separate from one's physical life. That muscular power has nothing whatever to do with it. But such reasoning is false to the core. The brain depends upon the muscular activities of the heart, stomach, etc., for "fire," fervor and ambition.

The muscles of the arms, legs, etc., secure their power from the same sources.

Both muscles and brain depend equally upon these important vital organs for their development.

If you build a strong body your blood-making organs function perfectly. Your blood is superior in quality. It gives the brain a throbbing aliveness, indicated by the piercing brightness of the eyes, the vivid expressiveness of the features.

A strong body adds tremendously to the nervous energies—a factor of great importance in brain development.

Intense mental concentration draws heavily upon the nervous forces. If you are "short" on nerve power, your brain may overbalance your body, bringing physical ruin and premature death.

The possession of physical courage insures mental courage. Your conclusions are more definite. You feel them more strongly. You are then more willing and more able to fight for them.

When your spine and brain are surcharged with the power that comes with a strong physique, you are ready for every emergency.

When you build strength from physical exercise you store up nervous energy that can be used for mental or physical activities.

Clear thinking demands this physical background as it insures the pure blood that comes from strong vital organs. Dependable reasoning is impossible without this physical capital.

And enthusiasm, the very soul of one's mentality, is largely a physical characteristic. Its possession requires that one must be surcharged with surplus physical energy. For that is the driving force back of every great achievement.

Do not make the tragical mistake of thinking that the brain can stand alone and work alone. It must have the support of a vigorous body. And the stronger, the more vital and dependable you make your bodily organism, the more you will be able to accomplish with your brain.

A strong, well-muscled body will insure the possession of great nervous energies.

It will give you courage and self-confidence. It will give you commanding self-reliance. It will enable you to fight for your convictions as well as for what you might term your "rights."

It will make you a young man when others are doddering with age. It will enable you to retain the spirit of youth mentally and physically a generation beyond the usual period of becoming old.

Therefore, to bring about the very best brain development, maintain your health at high water mark. Make your body throb with superlative energy.

Every issue of Physical Culture contains authoritative, vital information for your physical well-being. It shows how the weak have become strong—how those with pains, aches and many dangerous diseases have mastered their ill health through safe, sane, clean living, through correct diet and exercise. It shows, through photographic illustrations, the methods by which puny, sickly, anemic bodies are made robust, strong and vigorous by living according to nature's laws.

Every article in Physical Culture bears the stamp of truth. And whether you are now living the healthy, normal life, or are unconsciously treading the path to sickness and death, every issue of Physical Culture can be of wonderful help and guidance to your mental and physical condition.

"A Better Staff of Life"

By Milo Hastings

Director of Physical Culture Food Research Laboratory

There were sixteen cages each containing three baby rats. The rats in each cage were fed exclusively upon a single white bread combination. In one cage all of the baby rats died; in others they lived but failed to develop; in others they developed fairly well, and in a few they grew into superb healthy hearty adult rats.

In which cage do you keep your babies? Science has shown that the foods that kill baby rats kill baby humans and that the foods upon which baby rats grow strong, make healthy, happy, beautifully developed human babies. It is almost certain that your babies are being fed one of Mr. Hasting's sixteen bread combinations. Which one is it? Read his absorbingly interesting article in Physical Culture for February.

"Why Exercise Means Health"

By D. E. Eubanks

Every man will profit by the remarkable system of exercises illustrated and described by Mr. Eubanks in this illuminating article

Entirely too many people associate exercise with big muscles instead of with a strong heart, strong lungs, a clear mind and a clean blood stream. Because they are not especially keen to have over-developed muscles they give little or no attention to the matter of physical exercise. Proper exercise means strong and efficient functional activity, perfect elimination, a clear eye, a ruddy complexion—in other words, abounding health. Incidently it means muscles symmetrically developed but not over-developed.

"Gilda Gray's Beauty Exercises"

By Dorothea B. Herzog

"Any woman who will actually put into practice and faithfully follow the many exercises used by Miss Gilda Gray not only may hope for physical betterment but simply could not possibly help acquiring the symmetry and sculptural quality of feminine beauty which is manifested in any perfect body. Miss Gray is regarded as 'the world's champion shimmy dancer' because she has acquired a phenomenal quality of muscular co-ordination. In respect to her bodily control and perfection of development from toes to finger tips, she is comparable only to such muscular geniuses as Fred Stone and Douglas Fairbanks." Her beauty building exercises are so elaborately pictured and thoroughly described that every woman wishing to take advantage of her wide experience can do so with the utmost facility. Be sure and do not miss them.

Vigorous Valentino—Man of Muscle

By T. Howard Kelly

Rodolph Valentino has just completed a series of poses made exclusively for Physical Culture which we believe are different from anything he has ever done before. You know Valentino, the actor, Valentino the dancer, Valentino "the glass of fashion and the mould of form," but we doubt if you know Valentino, the man. Are you aware that under the immaculate clothes upon the seemingly slight built form there is a play of muscles and a chest development that would put many a stevedore to shame? See Valentino as he really is on pages 27, 28 and 29 of Physical Culture for February. The accompanying article, "Red Blood and Plenty of Sand" tells how he comes to possess the physique of a Roman gladiator.

"Are You, Dad, as Good a Man as Your Son"

Every man who has a son must ultimately answer this question. Almost any man under sixty should be able to say "Yes" off hand and make good on it if necessary. Yet most men of forty-five or over would think twice before tackling a husky son of twenty-one. The father in this article was lucky. He saw what was coming early enough to be prepared and he held his son's respect. But how about you? Are you prepared? Suppose that today you should be called upon to test your strength against your son's? Are you, Dad, as good a man as your son? We ask you in all seriousness? If you admit to yourself that it is doubtful, you admit that you are growing old before your time. You can still recover lost ground. Learn how one man did it. Page 57—Physical Culture for February.

The Only Authorized Service of News and Pictures Of the Tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen

(King of Egypt 3,000 Years Ago)

From The London Times, January 31, 1923

THE TOMB OF THE KING.

CONTRACT GIVEN TO "THE TIMES."

EXCLUSIVE SERVICE OF NEWS

LORD CARNARVON'S PLANS

We are able to announce that Lord Carnarvon, with the cordial concurrence of Mr. Howard Carter, has entered into an exclusive agreement with The Times for the distribution throughout the Press of the world of all news and photographs of his discoveries in the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen. Both Lord Carnarvon, since his return to London, and Mr. Howard Carter, at Luxor, have found it an impossible task to supply the Press individually with news and illustrations of their discoveries. Accordingly they have agreed for the future to employ a single agency for this purpose.

The Times was enabled, by the courtesy of Lord Carnarvon, to publish the first account of the discoveries in the Valley of the Tombs of the Kings, which have aroused a world-wide interest never before approached in the annals of excavation in Egypt or in any other land. Lord Carnarvon has now accepted the offer of The Times to place its organization at his disposal for the purpose of supplying a service of news and illustrations of the discoveries to every newspaper, magazine, or other periodical publication in the world which wishes to have it. He has therefore placed in our hands the whole of the useful publication rights of his expedition, and those rights include all news of discoveries, special articles, interviews, and photographs relating to the several chambers of the tomb of King Tut-ankh-Amen, opened and yet to be opened. Neither Lord Carnarvon nor any member of his party will supply news, articles, or photographs to any other individual, newspaper, or agency. No other service will be authorized.

The Times will supply the Press of the world with the material obtained under this agreement by means similar to those used in the arrangement which it made last year with the Mount Everest Expedition. Arrangements have already been made in Egypt and in London by which the whole of the material supplied by Lord Carnarvon and Mr. Howard Carter will be dispatched to The Times Office in London for simultaneous release to the Press of the world. The Times will make its own arrangements for this service direct with other newspapers, not only in this country, but throughout the world. All news matter and photographs published under this agreement will bear the following acknowledgment: "The Times world's copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon." Both The Times and Lord Carnarvon will take every precaution to prevent any infringement of this copyright.

Lord Carnarvon will leave London at the end of next week for Luxor. During his absence Mr. Howard Carter has been engaged in removing and preserving the objects found in the first chamber. Soon after Lord Carnarvon's arrival at Luxor the most important task of all will be undertaken. The opening of the north wall of the outer chamber, guarded by gigantic statues of King Tut-ankh-Amen, will be effected. Nobody can yet say what will be discovered behind that wall, but Lord Carnarvon has made public his conjecture in the special article which he contributed to The Times on December 11. He then said:

"There is little doubt that behind this wall there exists a chamber or chambers, and in one of these probably appears, in his coffins and sarcophagus, the body of King Tut-ankh-Amen. Should this Royal burial-place prove to be untouched, then the sight to be revealed will prove to be absolutely unique in the experience of any living archæologist, and, so far as I know, in the history of archæology."

It is possible that there may be a further chamber or chambers beyond this central one. In any event it is certain that the excavations will by no means be completed at the end of the present season. The work will have to be discontinued some time in April because of the heat. It will be resumed in the middle of October, and will probably be continued through the whole of next winter. It should be emphasized that The Times achieves exclusiveness this week not only of the present season but of such future seasons as may be used for the completion of the exploration of all the chambers of the tomb of King Tut-ankh-Amen.

As it is desirable in the general interest that the scheme should be put into operation without delay, all who are interested in The Times service are asked to communicate immediately with the Manager at Printing House-square.

¶ The discovery of the tomb a few weeks ago aroused world-wide interest. People from all parts of Europe and America are already flocking to the scene. Only the ante-chamber has been opened, but it was found to contain treasures unrivalled in the annals of Archaeology. The inner chambers, containing presumably the mummies of Tut-ankh-Amen and his queen, and probably also many further examples of the art and handicraft of one of the oldest civilizations, are now about to be opened..

¶ It is proposed by the Earl of Carnarvon, under whose concession for exploration the tomb was discovered, to permit henceforward only authorized news, articles, and pictures relating to the discovery.

¶ These will appear at frequent intervals in the daily and Sunday editions of

The New York Times

¶ The pictures will appear chiefly in the Sunday rotogravure sections, where full justice can be done them. The articles will be prepared by competent writers and Egyptologists. Many pictures are on the way to New York and hundreds more will be taken. The service will probably run through several months.

☛ The New York Times is always sold out early. Order of your newsdealer in advance

Notice to Editors and Publishers

¶ The New York Times, by arrangement with The London Times, has undertaken to distribute to the newspapers and periodicals of the United States and Canada the service of news, articles, and pictures relating to the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen, prepared under the sanction of the Earl of Carnarvon.

¶ Newspapers and periodicals desiring all or any branch of this service are requested to apply at once to The New York Times, Egyptian Service Department.

CHURCHES LAUNCH ANTI-HERESY DRIVE

Clergymen and Laymen for Fundamentalist Association of Metropolitan Area.

DR. STRATON IS PRESIDENT

Pastor of Calvary Church Takes Dr. Fosdick and Dr. Gould to Task for Views.

Straight Gospel Baptist Congregational and Lutheran pulpits and all the Calvary Baptist Church, at 123th St. and Fifth Ave., the Holy Church Mission to preach, last night formed the Baptist Fundamentalist Association of the Metropolitan Area, to wage a fight against the increasing influence of modernism and religious rationalism in the Baptist denomination. Dr. Rimmon Fosdick, President of the organization.

Plans were laid for a campaign, it was announced, to "purify the pulpits of New York and bring Calvary Baptist Church and the Rockefeller Foundation into conformity with the Scriptures." The campaign will be opened on Feb. 11 by a meeting at the Calvary Church, at which Dr. Straton will preside. Dr. Fosdick will be the principal speaker. Dr. Straton said the great majority of the pastors of Baptist churches in this city were in sympathy with the movement, and that many of them would attend the meeting. He refused to predict how many churches would withdraw from the Northern Baptist Convention, of which Dr. Fosdick is a leader, because of the association's activities, but said that a number of churches had already taken such action.

"I believe that the great majority of the Baptist people in this city are with us," he said. "They are tired of the attacks on the fundamentals of the Christian faith and the Bible. They want to hear the Gospel preached, and they will support churches that preach it. I am sure that a number of churches will withdraw from the Northern Baptist Convention because of the activities of Dr. Fosdick and his associates. Dr. Fosdick is a leader of modernism in the Baptist denomination, and I believe that the great majority of Baptists are against him. I refuse to predict how many churches will withdraw from the convention, but I am sure that a number will do so. I am sure that the Rockefeller Foundation will withdraw its support from the Baptist denomination if the organization continues to be dominated by modernists."

Dr. Fosdick is pastor of the First Baptist Church, New York, and Dr. Straton is pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Brooklyn. Dr. Straton's statement was made by the Rev. Charles Wellington, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Brooklyn, the Rev. Floyd Allen, pastor of the Second Fitzroy Baptist Church, Brooklyn, by Dr. Straton's son, and by a number of other pastors present.

The Rev. Ruth Paxson, a missionary lately returned from China, told of the results of religious modernism in the Far East. She said that the doctrines of the Christian faith had been abandoned by the leaders of religious thought in China, and that there was "wreck and ruin" in all Protestant denominations in China on that account.

WILL PERMIT KLAN TO HOLD MEETINGS

Unless They Conspire to Commit Crime, Prosecutor Dodd Won't Interfere.

HE DEFINES HIS POSITION

Replies to a Manufacturer Who Protests Against War on the Society.

District Attorney Charles J. Dodd, of Brooklyn, made it clear yesterday that the right of peaceable assemblage would not be denied to the Ku Klux Klan, whose existence dawned that it had completed its records a crime or take the law into its own hands.

Mr. Dodd's explanation of his position was contained in a reply to a letter from John H. Decker, of 400 East Seventh Street, a manufacturer of electrical and railroad equipment, and followed the recent arrest of eight alleged Klansmen after a meeting at 307 Clermont Avenue and the flight of seventy-two supposed Klansmen from Young's Hall, 1,338 Fulton Street, upon the approach of the police Monday night.

Magistrate Harry Brevoort Dale, before whom the eight alleged Klansmen were originally arraigned, declared at the time that actual and prospective members of the Klan must get out of Brooklyn, and Mr. Decker's letter was written apparently for the purpose of learning how far the District Attorney intended to go in the fight against the Brooklyn Klansmen.

"I invite in the papers a report of the arrest of several men for belonging to the Ku Klux Klan," Mr. Decker wrote the District Attorney, "and a report in today's World saying that Magistrate Dale, after a talk in your office, held them because they belonged to the Ku Klux Klan.

"I do not belong to the Klan, and I understand that I am not eligible. But as a plain matter of common sense and respect for the rights of citizens I am writing to protest against any citizen being arrested because he belongs to a certain society. If a man violates a law, all well and good; but it is inevitably dangerous to allow any man sending Magistrate to carry fewer by sending men to jail because they belong to a society which is unpopular with a certain class of citizens.

The course being pursued by certain papers and officials in this city is leading many to boast the Klan does any other thing which could be devised. I sincerely think that you should make a public declaration denying any attempt to punish people for belonging to a society and, if there were laws violated a crime, make it plain that they are after them for the crime and not because they belong to the Ku Klux Klan."

Mr. Dodd, who did not mention the Klan by name, made the following reply:

"The right of peaceable assemblage cannot be denied, nor should any attempt be made to prevent the meeting of any organization for a lawful purpose. If, however, any organization, or body of men shall meet in this county for the purpose of conspiring to commit a crime or take the law into their own hands, upon evidence of that being brought to this office, vigorous prosecutions will be instituted. It is the plain duty of this office to investigate persons charged with the commission of crime, and while I am in charge it will be kept within its legal bounds."

Arthur Young, one of the owners of Young's Hall, said the police made a mistake in assuming that there was a Klan meeting there on Monday night. Mr. Young said that two meetings were in progress, one of the Brooklyn Council of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the other of the Progress of America. He added that he thought there should be some method of redress.

Authorities at the Clinton avenue police court denied yesterday the charge that they had intimidated or placed pressure on the eight alleged Klansmen when they were arraigned in that court Friday morning. It was said that the alleged Klansmen received all possible privileges and were treated in different ways from other prisoners.

Captain D. A. Cooper, head of the Bomb Detection Bureau, continued yesterday his investigation of Klan activities in that city and questioned Charles Klein of 421 Bellevue Avenue, who is employed by an elevator construction firm. Klein said that he had applied for membership in the Klan, but had not been admitted. He promised that if he did join and learned of anything illegal he would resign and inform the police. Klein added that he believed stories printed and told about the Klan had been exaggerated.

TO START QUEENS BUS LINE.

Three Civic Organizations Believe They Are Safe From Courts.

Three civic organizations on the north side of Queens, the Elmhurst Manor and Corona Community Councils and the East Elmhurst Civic Association, have combined to operate a bus line for members. It was announced yesterday. The line will connect the communities of several Queens boroughs, it is stated by Attorneys and the New York and Queens County surface line system will fight it in law by the conformity of the Railway Board, have been trying to get some action which would eliminate the necessity for operating an "X" schedule.

The plan is to make a contract with a private bus owner to operate buses exclusively for the use of members of the three associations. By this method, it is believed, the line will not fall under the ban of previous court injunctions.

FIGHTS ARREST IN SUBWAY.

Walter Battles Ten Minutes Before He Gives In—Held as Pickpocket.

While the rush hour crowd was at the height last night on the downtown platform of the Canal Street station on the B. R. T. subway, Roger Lewis, a waiter, of 128 Stuyvesant Street, fought for ten minutes resisting arrest by Detective Michael Corrigan on a charge of attempting to pick pockets.

"You're not a detective," Lewis said to Corrigan, as the latter placed his hand on Lewis's shoulder and told him he was under arrest for putting his hand into the pocket of a man on the platform. Lewis, according to the police, attempted to strike the detective and a struggle followed. When in the crowd's height to Mercer said many fled in the direction finally subdued Lewis and took him to the Oak Street station.

ADMIT JEWEL ROBBERY.

German Sisters Tell Judge Their Family Lost Its Money.

Judge Collins yesterday in General Sessions remanded Mrs. Josephine Von Harten, 32, a widow, of 420 West 120th Street, and her sister, Miss Emily Bach, 30, of 305 Central Park West, to the Tombs for sentence on Feb. 5 after they pleaded guilty to the theft of $1,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Hallie Arch of 1,407 Broadway, last September.

The prisoners told the Court that they came to this country from Germany eighteen months ago, and obtained employment as governesses. They learned there from Mrs. Arch and another that her self Switzerland, through the war. Mrs. Arch said that she was visiting at the home of Mrs. Fannie Wyler, at 700 West 180th Street, when the women robbed her. All of the jewelry was recovered by Detective Sergeant Mahoney of the West 100th Street Station.

400,000,000 BAD TEETH REPORTED IN NATION

Columbia School of Dentistry Puts Average at Four for Each Inhabitant.

The Columbia University School of Dentistry, in an announcement issued yesterday, estimated that the number of defective teeth in the United States was more than 400,000,000 or about four to every person. Members of the school's department of oral hygiene have been working among the school children, last year a total of 11,000 having been cared for by the dental students, many of them women.

"Oral hygiene teaching is particularly valuable among the youngest children, whose habits have not been formed," said Dr. Amos Hughes, Director of the Columbia Oral Hygiene Department.

"Soups and thyme are used to impress the lesson, and they are taught how to use the toothbrush in a tooth-brush drill. In the clinical work mothers of fifteen students, under trained supervision, go from room to room systematically, leaving each room 100 per cent. dentally clean. When defective teeth are found which need the attention of a dentist, word is sent to the child's parents, and if they are unable to pay the Dentist for the child is sent to the nearest dental clinic.

"Good mouth habits neglected at this age will forestall many tooth troubles, and form an understanding of the possibilities of their neglect. It helps establish the idea that it isn't necessary to go to a dentist unless one has a toothache."

BRIDE OF THREE WEEKS KILLED BY AUTO TRUCK

Identified by Husband—Twice, 36 Years Old, Hurt in Brooklyn Taxicab Smash.

A well dressed young woman alighted from a Southern Boulevard car at 174th Street, the Bronx, at noon yesterday, and became confused as a three-ton truck driven by William H. Hartman of New Haven bore down on her. She slipped on the pavement and was run down and crushed to death. The driver was arrested, and the police found the victim to be unidentified.

While David Plan, from manufacturer, returned to his home at 2,078 Bryant Avenue, the Bronx, last night, he found that his wife, Rose, had left the house engaged as usual. It puzzled him at dinner. Instead, she was absent. Plan thought she had been delayed on a shopping tour. Finally he inquired at the Bellevue Avenue Station where he was identified with the victim of the morning tragedy.

Andrew and John McGovern, 38-year-old twins, of 1,888 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, were taken to Swedish Hospital, suffering from contusions when the autos carrying them and three other brothers crashed into another at Prospect Place and Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn.

Four automobiles and a fire hydrant were damaged, but no one was injured in a congestion collision at Bedford Avenue and Taylor Street, Brooklyn.

Alexander Smith & Sons Company Total $4,400,000 in 12 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

Employees of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company's mills in Yonkers, numbering about 6,000, are to receive a semi-annual bonus tomorrow which will involve the distribution of about $400,000.

It will be the twenty-fourth semi-annual bonus given by the company and will bring the total the company has distributed under the bonus reward system up to approximately $4,400,000 in twelve years. Under the plan, inaugurated by Alexander Smith Cochran, principal owner of the works, employees receive from 1 to 25 per cent. of their wages earned for the previous six months, the exact percentage depending on the number of years an employe has worked for the firm.

GOVERNMENT REFUNDS TAX.

Pays Back Total of $265,997.99 to the Public Service Corporation.

The Public Service Corporation announced yesterday at Newark that it had received a check for $70,000 from the Secretary of the Treasury in reimbursement for taxes illegally levied and collected. Litigation has been pending since 1918. The check was for about $70,000, and the company has received back from the Government a total of $265,997.99, including interest and cost of litigation.

The Government in 1918 assessed certain leased utility companies in the public service system, which were not actually operating. The assessments were sustained in 1919, 1921 and 1922. The Supreme Court of the United States held that the law did not apply to non-operating leased companies.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Lucien Gaudin, a left-handed fencer and for many years Champion of France, received today the 1922 one thousand franc prize by the Academy of Sports, in recognition of his sportsmanship and high moral value.

Gaudin has been conquered by the French as the world's fully champion since he won a sensational bout against Aldo Nadi, the Italian amateur champion, in Paris last year. For this victory the French Government decorated him with the Legion of Honor.

Gaudin recently was unofficially defeated over M. Bertrand, champion of the fencing masters, but refused to meet Bertrand in a bout for an official decision before judges.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Five volunteer units tonight destroyed the six-story factory building of A. W. Haight & Co., printers, and caused a loss estimated at $300,000. Nothing was saved from the structure except a dog, "Chum," who was rescued from the fourth floor by two firemen as the flames swept up to the second story.

The first three floors of the building were occupied by the Haight Company and the fourth and fifth floors by the Hughes Shirt Company.

Late tonight firemen were battling the flames as they reached the sixth floor, which was used as a storage room and carpet factory by Lasher, Platt & Co.

Persons living with glass windows in the factory were allowed by the fire officials to remain.

Taxi Drivers Wouldn't Be Robbed.

On a charge of attempting to hold up a number of taxicab chauffeurs in front of 135 Perry Street yesterday, James Brown, 19 years old, of 227 Perry Street, was arraigned in Jefferson Market Court and held for the General Sessions Grand Jury by Magistrate Norman J. Hirsch. He was charged with violation of the Sullivan law and held in $1,000 bail for trial. Brown was arrested by Patrolmen Frank J. Smith of the Charles Street Station and Joseph Cassidy of the Jefferson Market Station, who were detailed to the district to arrest bandits who had been holding up taxicab drivers. Brown was identified by a taxi driver as the man who had attempted to hold him up. He was found in possession of a revolver, it is said.

HER ROUGE MAYOR GETS DEATH THREAT

Anonymous Writer in Arkansas Orders Him to Leave Town Since He Opposed Klan.

STATE TO GIVE PROTECTION

Federal Authorities Also Will Be Asked to Seek Writer—Marshal Law Talked Of.

Special to The New York Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 30.—Mayor Robert L. Dodd, a brother-in-law of Wiley Dodd, murdered by a hooded mob, is said to be threatened with death unless he leaves town within ten days.

The warning came today in an anonymous letter, bearing a Hot Springs, Ark., post mark. It was written by some one apparently familiar with Mayor Dodd's history and his testimony at the open hearing at Benton into the hooded murder mystery. The Mayor, who opposed the withdrawal of troops from the parish, announced that he would ask the Attorney General and Department of Justice agents to try to locate the author of the death threat. The Mayor once joined in the Ku Klux Klan and then renounced it as he opposed its policies.

The letter, written on stationery of the National Park Hotel, at Hot Springs, follows:

"Dear Sir: You are hereby notified to pack up and get out of town within ten days of receipt of this notice. You have never been any good as a man or as a citizen. Use your own judgment and either leave or become a corpse.

"LAW ABIDER."

In view of the threats to clean out Mer Rouge made by Hastings Klansmen, friends of the Mayor are very anxious tonight and many are bringing out their firearms with a view to preparedness.

In view of Governor Parker's announcement that he will proclaim martial law at the first indication of trouble in Morehouse Parish, and that he is determined to protect witnesses at all costs, friends of the Mayor have urged him to formally notify the Chief Executive of the incident.

A number of Arkansas residents are said to have been members of the masked mob which killed Daniel and Richards, and handwriting experts, it is believed, may be able to trace the origin of the letter.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 30.—Prompt action will be taken by the Attorney General's office in connection with the threatening letter received by R. L. Dodd, Mayor of Mer Rouge and an important witness for the State during the recent open hearing at Benton, Assistant Attorney General Gahn said tonight.

Since the letter was sent from another State the Federal authorities will be asked to act and to run down the writer of the letter.

Mayor Dodd, at the open hearing, testified to being a member of a masked mob of Klansmen who called on Henry Norris, W. C. Andrews and Wiley Dodd on the Gallion Road after the three men had followed the Klansmen on one of their midnight errands. When on the stand the Mayor revealed the names of 2 members of men in the mob, including Captain J. C. Sigsworth, Resident Head of the Klan in Morehouse Parish, who he testified, ordered the three men after they had been threatened with other punishment.

The long distance telephone from Mer Rouge on the night Wiley Dodd attended the meeting to the Klan, "Let 'em out in the open and make a clean fight of it," he said.

Attorney General Coco will go to Baton Rouge tomorrow to confer with Governor Parker on the Ku Klux Klan outrages in Morehouse Parish.

JAIL FOR WELL-TO-DO WOMAN

Sentenced as Shoplifter—Drug Addict, Says Her Counsel.

A sentence of four months in the workhouse was imposed in Special Sessions yesterday on Mrs. Palma Hunt, wife of a Cuban plantation owner, who lives at 340 West Eighty-ninth Street, when she pleaded guilty to a shoplifting charge. She was arrested on Jan. 2 last for the theft of a pair of silk gloves and a silk garment worth $14.25 at R. H. Macy & Co.'s. She had previously been arrested and released on bail pending trial on a charge of stealing seven handkerchiefs, worth $12, from Gimbel's.

When Mary Mangan, a probation officer, told the Court that the young woman was a drug addict, and the Court ordered that she be treated in an effort to rid her of the habit. The probation officer said that investigation revealed that her husband had provided a sanitarium where Mrs. Hunt could be cured for the $700 she had spent during the year to support the drug habit, often on credit. The Court would not suspend sentence on that her husband could send her to a private institution for treatment.

Come and see the New Corona

IT'S the very latest development in portable typewriters, and when you see it, you will agree that it is a wonder of compactness and convenience!

In this New Corona you get something you cannot get in any other portable typewriter—a design and construction that have stood the test of time and of actual use in the hands of half a million owners. There are more Coronas in use than all other makes of portable typewriters combined.

An office typewriter in portable form

When you have examined the New Corona, you will see why it has created such a stir in typewriter circles. For instead of being "just a portable typewriter," it is really an office typewriter in portable form.

Four new features

The four improvements listed below are new in this model.

1. Automatic Ribbon Reverse.
2. 10-inch Carriage—wider than any other portable typewriter.
3. Standard Portable Keyboard. The simplest of all typewriter keyboards, and the easiest to memorize and use.
4. Improved Line Spacer—one motion returns carriage and spaces for next line.

The advantage of Corona's folding carriage

When you see the New Corona, your biggest wonder will be that a machine so light and so compact not only has all the conveniences of a large typewriter, but looks like one as well.

The secret is Corona's Folding Carriage, a feature largely responsible for Corona's wonderful success.

Look at Corona's long type-bars. They operate just like those of a big, standard machine. This would not be possible in so light a machine, were it not for the folding feature. Now compare Corona's type-bar action with that of any other portable machine and you will see the difference.

Another great advantage of the folding carriage is that it increases the life of the machine because when it is folded, it is proof against knocks and jars which always occur in traveling.

No increase in price

$50 buys the New Corona, complete with the carrying case.

GRIBLEY RETAINS TITLE IN BOUT AT GARDEN

American Light-Heavyweight Champion Defeats Langford in 15-Round Match.

LOSER STRONG AT START

Outpoints Rival in First Three Sessions, but Latter Rallies and Wins Easily.

CROWD DENOUNCES VERDICT

Small Gathering of 7,000 Shows Hostility to Pittsburgh Boxer for Rough Tactics.

Harry Grib of Pittsburgh retained his American light-heavyweight championship title against Tommy Langford, Philadelphia contender, last night in Madison Square Garden. After fifteen rounds of boxing, which illustrated from the middleweight to the rundown as the final preliminary, Judge Tommy Shirrell and George Barton and Referee Billy Gibson, Brookland rendered their decision in favor of Grib.

The decision did not meet with the approval of the crowd of about 7,000. There was a demonstration of disapproval from the small gathering, which had paid $18,000. It not enough to influence the verdict. But in the opinion of the majority of ring critics this disapproving outburst was unwarranted. Grib really won two of the fifteen rounds by a margin which gave the champion a commanding lead on points at the final bell.

Undoubtedly a late rally by Langford stirred a majority of the fans who thought the Philadelphian from also won. Langford fought with his last ounce of strength in the closing rounds and won the honors for this part of the bout. This and the fact that the crowd was hostile to Grib throughout probably were responsible for the outburst of disapproval when the decision was announced. As is typical of fans, Grib got most punishment in the efforts of the referee to maintain the clinches of the fighters.

The champion, as usual, was a fashionable attire, well-clad and puggish. But the forty-two minutes of battle in the ring to which he limited his work to-night took away the creases of the crowd regard, and he left with one hand and left with the other, and used his head, shoulders and elbows in the clinches.

Grib Makes Strong Rally.

It was Grib's perpetual-motion style which won him the battle, this and a manifest timidity on the part of Langford when infighting and rushtactics would have brought greater results to the Quaker City lad. Outpointed in the first three rounds however his rival was a better boxer and a cleaner and more scientific hitter. Grib, landing and absorbing without a let-up, carried off the honors but was unable to a manner which to mean the decision. He was either knocked down or was on the verge of the attack that, while wild and inconclusive, nevertheless was enough to accumulate points for the champion. Langford was in full retreat from the fourth to the fourteenth save for the fifth round, when with the Philadelphian's right to the body Grib was forced to take a knee.

In the fourteenth and fifteenth rounds Langford disturbed to timidity and endangered leads with the champion in spirited mêlées. The greatest action of the bout was centered in the two closing rounds. Langford rose Grib's to-do with powerful rights and lefts to the body, and at the close gained physical right to the body with disconcerting effect on Grib. The champion, however, finishing fighting in the final bell, but was staggering and unsteady in the last two rounds.

Langford scrubbed his most prosperous attention in the tenth round. In this session the Quaker City lad was definitely on the offensive and on Grib jolted him with a stinging drive to the face and body. A right to the chin, a full arm swing, with carried the weight of Grib's body back of it, almost dropped Langford to his knees. Grib, very much like a cat and after a short interval that the weak hitting champion could score a knockout. He drove Langford into the latter's corner with a powerful right to the jaw and sends the Philadelphian going with a violent left to the body. ROAD BOARD SPLITS JERSEY LAWMAKERS

Legislature Adjourns for Week Without Acting on Gilmer's Measure.

FIVE-MAN BODY ADVOCATED

Many Republicans Said to Prefer a Larger Body, With Act Barring Members.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 30.—Members of the new State Highway Commission to take the place of the one summarily removed by Governor Silzer have split the Republican majority in the Legislature. The questions of how many members shall constitute the new board and their politics will undoubtedly block confirmation for the week now ahead before Silzer. The whole matter has been placed in the hands of the Joint Conference Committee, which will meet Monday afternoon in an effort to reach a decision.

Although two of the prominent Republican Senators told the Governor a week ago they would support a bill for a board of three to be named by him, that being the proposal it was reported tonight that three of the ten had switched and were ready to go along with the other seven on a bill to set up a board of five, to be named by the Legislature. If the seven Senators can be won over the supporters of the five-member body plan will have ample strength to pass such a bill and then repass it, if necessary, over a veto. The Assembly Republicans for the most part favor a five-man commission.

If the Three-Man bill should pass, the Governor naming members, two would be Democrats and the third, Republican, the man to be chosen by the Republican legislators from a list of three to be submitted by the executive. If the Five-Man bill should be decided on it is probable that the members would be designated in the act itself and, the three, if not four, would be Republicans.

The names of the three Senators reported to have deserted Governor Silzer could not be learned. Senate President Joseph Wallworth, of Camden County, is leading the fight against the Silzer proposal and it looked tonight as if he would win.

An interesting line the highway situation leaves that not a word is heard of prohibition and its enforcement. Bills for nullification and modification have been introduced, but they are still in committee and will stay there until New Jersey has a new State Road Board.

Now that there is a possibility that the board will be abolished, Democratic State leader Alexander Simpson, of Hudson County, does not want it to have the spending of the $60,000,000 to be raised by the bond issue authorized at the last general election. He introduced a bill today for a referendum on the repeal of the act.

Both houses today adopted the Senate concurrent resolution, introduced by Senator Alexander Simpson of Hudson, providing for an investigation into the conduct of Mr. Frank S. Hutson of Jersey City, counsel for the Sunday Amusement bill, that the Governor had "fixed" and that four other Senators had been bought by motion picture interests.

As a result members of the Senate and Assembly Appropriations Committee Morton A. K. Bugbee of this city, who is also counsel, as was the State Director of Railroads, Joshua Burton of Burlington.

LETS POTHIER TAKE APPEAL.

Federal Judge's Action Stays Removal of Alleged Crookbite Slayer.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 30.—Judge Brown in the Federal Court today permitted counsel for Roland R. Pothier of Central Falls, former army sergeant accused of murdering Major Alexander P. Crookbite at Camp Lewis, on Oct. 21, 1918 to take an appeal to the Supreme Court. The case goes up on the denial of the Court here to grant Pothier's petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Pothier was held on Jan. 22 by Judge Brown for manslaughter. The trial will be before a petit jury there. The appeal automatically stays his removal to Virginia.

SCENTS A SOVIET TRICK.

British Observer Suspects Mischief in Subsidy Oil Concession.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—"In giving to an American company an oil concession in the Island of Sakhalin," says a correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, "the Soviet Government has really disposed of something which is under the control of another power. The predominant position of the Japanese in the Island is well known. The Soviet Government is simply a diplomatic move to create trouble between Tokio and Washington and eventually to force the hand of the United States Government in the question of political recognition."

LABOR SPEAKS AT RACES, GEORGE WHITE SAYS

Theatrical Producer in Court to Explain Non-Payment of Check Given in a Bet.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 30.—George White, producer of "George White's Scandals," told Judge Brady of the Pittsburgh District of the Municipal Court today that he had refused to honor a check for $1,000 given by Samuel H. Nixon, Jr., because he had bet that Labor would speak at Belmont Park on Jan. 20, 1923. He stated Mr. Nixon's check for $1,000 was given in payment of a bet he had made with Mr. Nixon that Labor would not speak at Belmont Park on that date. Mr. White said that he had refused to honor the check because he had learned that Labor had been represented at the meeting. Mr. White said that he was willing to pay the money to charity, but that he would not pay it to Mr. Nixon.

Judge Brady said that he thought that Mr. White was entitled to the money and that Mr. Nixon was not entitled to it. Mr. White was then told by the Judge that he could keep the money and that the case was dismissed.

Mr. White and Nixon took seats of honor at the meeting which Judge Brady thought, but of three others, which, he said, were occupied by persons who had come to Pittsburgh to hear the Judge speak. Mr. White said that he had been told that Labor would not speak at the meeting, but that he had learned that Labor was represented at the meeting and came to Pittsburgh to hear the Judge speak also.

Both White and Nixon took seats of honor at the meeting which Judge Brady thought, but of three others, which, he said, were occupied by persons who had come

...CRATS'S BILL ...KES SHIP SUBSIDY

...ment Fails in Effort to Get an Early Vote on Farmers' Measure.

REBELS TALK OF FILIBUSTER

Republicans Give Notice That Subsidy Cannot Be Acted On This Session.

VOTE AGAINST 'STRONG ARM'

Anti-Subsidy Senators, Through Majorities, Declare the People Are Tired of Republican Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The Senate Democratic caucus to-night voted, 27 to 23, to support the Ship Subsidy bill in its present amended form. All efforts by the Administration Democrats today to get sufficient strength to vote on the Edwards merchant marine bill were abandoned, and Senator Harrison, acting as spokesman for the anti-subsidy forces on both sides of the chamber, served warning that "strong-arm" methods and Cloture resolutions would not accomplish the passage of the subsidy measure in the remaining eight legislative days this Congress will have to live.

Senator Brandegee gave notice that he would do his part to see to it that the ship legislation did not reach a vote before noon next Monday, March 4, and he would speaking not for himself alone, but for Mr. La Follette, Norris, Borah and others of the Republican "solid" camp.

The whole session today was one continuous wrangle. Senator Lenroot, in charge of the Penrose-Crellin bill, started the talk when he proposed that after 2 o'clock tomorrow speeches on the measure be limited to twenty minutes and no amendments to be admitted.

This was blocked, as was also a motion by Senator Jones of Washington, in charge of the subsidy bill, that the Senate agree to vote on the Lenroot bill before midnight on Friday.

Senator Harrison suggested that the vote be taken next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Senator Lenroot and Senator Jones objected to that, the latter following the minority that he would oppose any motion supporting a vote later than Friday.

Lenroot Seeks Early Vote.

Senator Lenroot submitted his unanimous agreement proposal soon after the Senate convened. He said the Senate had talked about the bill for four days and he was of the opinion that after eight o'clock tomorrow afternoon any Senator could say all he wanted to about the bill in twenty minutes, while two minutes was ample time to pass judgment on any amendment that might be offered.

"The proposition," said Senator Harrison, "is not exactly reasonable. You have in view—"

"I desire," interrupted Senator Brookhart, "to offer an amendment to the Lenroot insurance amendment, which, I think, is the one to which I suggest that there should be no limitation of debate on the Ship Subsidy bill at this session of Congress."

"I make the suggestion," replied Senator Harrison, "that after 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon debate on the pending bill close, after which we proceed to vote on all amendments then pending and then on the bill itself."

Senator Lenroot objected to both the suggestion and Harrison proposition, saying he was willing to a final vote should be reached by March 4.

"I will not," added Mr. Lenroot, "be a party to the failure to reach any agreement up to a time for voting that, between the unanswered object, I will, if the Senate is unwilling, sit here night and Sunday until the bill is passed."

Harrison Warns Against Subsidy.

"Had my proposal been accepted," said Mr. Harrison, "the Lenroot bill would have been out of the Senate and in the House by next Tuesday afternoon. We could then take up the army bill, the only appropriation measure remaining to be considered. That out of the way, we could by unanimous consent take up the various bills which are on the calendar and which ought to be disposed of before March 4, and the session, with end of the Sixty-sixth Congress, would be completed in ordinary style, and the Senate would not be in session on Sunday. As it is, I am afraid that the bill may be passed this week.

"As a matter of fact, the Senate knows that it cannot be forced by that vote, and it anybody does that it can be in labored manner. There are some of us who want every session bill passed, we want farm credit legislation enacted, and we are willing to co-operate to that end. However, we are not going to co-operate with the subsidy bill by losing party control. The Democrats will have the responsibility of the session, and if they want to be a party to losing the session on the subsidy bill they will have to take the consequences. I am not willing to be a party to any such program."

Senator Lenroot objected to the proposition, saying that he would not consent to pass the subsidy bill ahead of the bills which ought to be disposed of before March 4, and he was speaking not for himself alone, but for Mr. Fellette, Norris, Borah and others of the Republican "solid" camp.

The Record of Electric Power and Light Preferred Stocks

WE have carefully checked the dividend records of electric power and light companies in the United States whose output exceeds 100,000,000 K. W. H. per year, and of all of the larger systems in which traction operation has not been an important element and any of whose subsidiaries supply power and light to cities of over 100,000 population. This includes practically all electric power and light companies with gross earnings of $3,000,000 per year and upwards and their combined capitalization represents more than 85% of the total capitalization of all electric power and light companies in the United States.

The Results of this Analysis show that

1 Current cash dividends are being paid on all of their preferred stocks.

2 In only three cases are there accumulated back dividends unpaid.

3 In thirteen other cases dividends have been deferred but have subsequently been paid off in stock or cash.

4 In all other cases the preferred stocks have unbroken dividend records.

This list includes 67 companies which have Preferred Stocks and 14 which have only Common Stocks outstanding. In these latter cases we have considered the record of the Common Stocks. Of these 81 companies every one is paying current cash dividends:

FILED WITH COURT

Holding Liability Two-Thirds to Holding Company and One-Third to Coal Company.

IRON COMPANY SWITCHED

Case to Reading Coal and Iron Company for $5,000,000 After Paying $5,000,000 Dividend.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—The agreed modified plan for the dissolution of the combination established through the Reading Company, which was decided illegal by the United States Supreme Court in April, 1920, was filed in the United States District Court today.

It provides for dividing the holdings of the Reading Company, the holding corporation of all the Reading's interests, with the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company in the distribution of the stock in the holding company and one-third to the coal company.

The stock of the Reading Iron Company is to be retained and then the Reading Company is to distribute the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company for $5,000,000, the iron company then to pay $5,000,000 from its surplus assets to the holding company.

The first plan to be long litigation to separate the various holding companies was made in June, 1911, but it was voided in the United States Supreme Court by decisions handed down on the latter part last May ordered certain modifications to make the decision more effective.

The Supreme Court decided the question of the issue of the Government's right under the Federal constitutional statute of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which prohibited the consolidation of competing railroads, and the Reading Company, which controlled the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, which controlled the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, which controlled the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, which controlled the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad

RAILROADS' GROSS INCOMES INCREASE

Net Annual Reports of Some Systems Show Profits Under 1921 Figures.

SOUTHERN LINES PROSPER

Freight Shipments From Cotton Crop Is Not as Important a Factor as Formerly.

Railroad annual reports commenced yesterday included those of several large systems and these as a group showed substantial betterment for December, 1921, in both gross and net earnings over December, 1920. For the full year the gross earnings figures showed a substantial gain in amount as compared with 1920 and also compared favorably with the 1919 figures. Net earnings were mixed, some showing an increase and others a decrease as compared with the 1920 figures, but compared with 1919 the net figures of 1921 were distinctly better. In several cases unfavorable with deficits in 1921, which was a year of reasonably high operating costs.

The Southern's exhibit as a whole reflected the prosperity which was reported in that section because of higher cotton prices. Shipments of other freight, including manufactured articles, also stood up well, indicating that the South is the principal commodity has much purchasing power. Despite the reduction in the operating ratio from 1920 to 1921, and the increase of various deductions, The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company reported for the twelve-month period gross business of $211,349,207 against $211,349,207 in 1920, and $211,349,207 in 1919. Net operating income was $34,827,784, an increase of $10,202,000 over last year. For the month of December the company reported a gross of $18,349,207, an increase of $1,349,207 over December of 1920, while net was $3,349,207, an increase of $1,349,207. The report of the Southern Railway Company reflected similar improvement. For the twelve months ended December 31, 1921, gross earnings were $211,349,207,

Stockholders Gather at Offices of Metropolitan Finance Corporation.

MIX-UP OVER A MEETING

Secretary Declares It Was Held by Proxies, but Assistant to President Says It Was Put Off.

There was a scene in the offices of the Metropolitan Finance Corporation, at 9 East Forty-fifth Street, yesterday when stockholders who had gathered in response to a call for a meeting to hear why the last dividend on the preferred stock had been passed heard from a girl clerk that the meeting had been postponed until March 31. The stockholders, not having been notified, wanted to know why, and there was no officer of the company there to tell them.

The meeting had been called for noon, and when that hour approached there were about fifty stockholders in the office and in the corridors outside. The girl said she had been told to notify them of the postponement of the meeting, and when they asked for Leroy Swormstedt, President of the company, they were told he was out. The stockholders got more and more angry.

Finally a Mr. Hills, Secretary of the company, appeared. He told them that a meeting of stockholders of proxy had been held and the meeting adjourned. At that they got angrier than ever. So, faced with a meeting that might develop into a riot, Mr. Hills brought out the minutes of the meeting and read them to the crowd. Quite naturally all of the stockholders present had failed to get proxies, and so the meeting had been held with those present, a quorum of proxies and stock being represented. After payment of dividends the company reported a surplus of $227,300 last year, against a deficit of $467,200 after dividends in 1921.

The net profit in 1922 was equal to $7.37 a share earned on the $25,500,000 outstanding capital stock of $37 a share par value. In 1921 the company's net profits equaled to 70 cents a share on the capital stock. The profit and loss surplus at the close of last year amounted to $18,207,611, against $18,280,440 in 1921.

Warns of Counterfeit $10 Notes.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, yesterday issued a statement warning of a new counterfeit $10 Federal Reserve note. The description follows: "On the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, check letter B, face plate 626, A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; Frank White, Treasurer of the United States, portrait of Jackson. This is a very poor note, printed from electrotype or electrotype plates, on two pieces of paper between which silk threads have been distributed to imitate the fiber of the genuine. The coloring of the serial number and seal is poor, and the workmanship throughout is so crude that it should not deceive the ordinary careful handler. The number of the specimen at hand is B00000001."

COTTON IS SUBDUED, BUT QUIETLY STEADY

Trade Report More Inquiry for New-Crop Positions—Prices 4 to 10 Points Up.

Cotton not only maintained the previous day's steady movement, but added yesterday's gains of 4 to 10 points. There active demand for delivery positions developed, contrary to the usual trend in both October and December. It was made known in March or one end of the list and purchases at the other end that covered a further monetary flow. Quotations ranged from 10 to 20 points (apparently) during the day under opposing influences which have opposed the trend this week. The sale of a single bale of cotton in Boston for 45.00c (December) was reported. Wednesday in Fall River cotton goods continued quiet. Trading in print cloths was light, with asking prices unchanged. Sales were reported at 6½c for 64x60s and 7½c for 64x72s.

Private advices received here expressed the belief that the short trade generally is obtaining more credit conditions, which would be helpful to the staple. Reports from the South indicate that the ginning of cotton has been somewhat delayed by recent rains, but considerable progress is being made in the fields. Trading in March and May contracts was light, with the latter month showing a slight premium over the former. Trade interests continued to be the principal factor in the market, with the bulk of the business coming from that source. Commission houses failed to take any great action from the ring. This left room for operators with inside views to make their own market, and the local cotton trade was mostly responsible for the buying. New crops made the least showing of the day.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev.
March	27.73	28.00	27.66	27.97@27.98	27.70

December	26.25	26.52	26.20	26.50@26.51	26.25

The local market for spot cotton was quiet; 119 sales reported; 28.10c for middling, upland. Closes $1,000,000 Dictaphone Deal.

FINDS SLIGHT DROP IN BASIC PRODUCTION

Federal Reserve Bank of New York Ignores Its February Review.

RAIL TRAFFIC IS HEAVIER

Employment in Industries Gained in December, With Increase in Wages.

Production and prices remained substantially unaltered in December while trade and credit showed the usual increases in the holiday season, according to the February review of credit and business conditions by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The index of production in basic industries, says the review, showed a slight recession in December after the rapid rise last August, although production was maintained at a level near the peak of 1919. The review continues:

"The output of pig iron and steel continued in December, but the production of certain other commodities, particularly of cotton textiles and shoes, showed declines. In Southern districts the lighting industry continued active and in all parts of the country much new construction was projected.

"Railroad traffic continued heavier than a year ago, though the seasonal decline in car loadings and the reduction in coal orders was partially relieved by freight embargoes.

"Employment at industrial establishments made a further advance in December, accompanied by wage increases in certain industries. Some shortage of labor in the Eastern districts was still reported, but in the Pacific States a substantial surplus of unskilled labor was reflected.

"Wholesale trade in most reporting lines showed a seasonal decline in December, but was considerably larger than a year ago. Farm implement dealers reported record sales during December, 1922, business of reporting stores during December showing the largest volume in the history of their trade.

"Shipments of gold amounting to $50,000,000 were received in this country during December. Gold imports during the year (the excess of imports over exports during 1922 was $301,765,000 as compared with $367,000,000 in 1921. The total excess of imports during the past three years has amounted to $1,100,000,000 and since 1914 to $1,700,000,000.

MONTREAL REJECTS BIDS.

City Finance Committee Refuses Offers for Bonds.

The City Finance Committee of Montreal, Canada, yesterday rejected the only two bids received for the $12,000,000 5 per cent. thirty-one year refunding bonds and the $1,000,000 5 per cent. 20½ year improvement bonds which the city is planning to issue. The highest bid was 94.127, from a syndicate composed of Harmon Brothers, Rene T. Leclerc Inc., L. G. Beaubien, Nesbitt, Thompson & Co., R. A. Daly & Co., W. A. Mackenzie & Co., all of Montreal, and E. H. Rollins & Sons, The Equitable Trust Company, W. R. Compton & Co., Kountze Brothers, W. A. Harriman & Co. and Blyth, Witter & Co., all of New York City.

The second bid was 93.727, from a syndicate composed of Wood, Gundy & Co., Dominion, Peabody & Co., The National City Company, A. E. Ames & Co., The Dominion Securities Corporation, The Guaranty Trust Company, The Bankers Trust Company, Dillon, Read & Co., and the Continental & Commercial Trust and Savings Bank Chicago.

BIG PETROLEUM IMPORTS.

Total of 1,213,108,362 Gallons a High Record for Britain.

Petroleum imports into the United Kingdom during 1922 established a new high record for all time. Total receipts amounted to 1,213,108,362 gallons against 1,160,892,402 gallons in 1921. Imports were classified as follows in gallons:

	1922.	1921.
Heavy Refined	211,000,000	201,000,000
Refined Oils	48,000,000	34,000,000
Gas Oil	33,000,000	34,000,000
Fuel Oil	200,000,000	201,000,000
Crude Oil	247,000,000	201,000,000
Unclassified	31,000	92,000
Total	1,213,108,362	1,160,892,402

The reduction in fuel oil is understood to be due to the falling off in the demand for ships.

These remarks are addressed to our Leading Citizen

In every community and neighborhood some man rises above other men. The rank and file look up to him as a leader. His prestige is secure. His family becomes prominent.

"Jones has made good," people say of him. "Jones is a success."

Perhaps you are a man of this type.

Then we have something to say to you.

We can't be sure of this, but if you are like other men, the high regard of your friends, your associates and your neighbors means more to you than does the mere ability to purchase the necessities and luxuries of life. There is keen satisfaction in being appraised at full value.

What will be the appraisal of your accomplishments when you are no longer here? Wouldn't you consider it unfortunate if people said of you, "Jones wasn't the success we thought he was?"

You have heard that kind of remark about men who leave their affairs in such a state that their families suffer needlessly. How many times it happens! How often mismanagement, unwise investment, and dishonesty have scattered to the winds an estate carved out by a man's hard work!

Why don't you avoid all criticism and take all the guess out of your family's future? See your lawyer, make your will, and investigate the advantages of having the Trust Department of the old Seaboard act as your executor.

The Seaboard handles a large volume of trust business. Its executives have had long and thorough experience in this type of work. During these years it has developed every conceivable facility for handling your trust affairs with efficiency and considerate thoughtfulness. Would you be interested in receiving our booklet, "Personal Trust Service," which will soon be coming from the printers? Any of our offices will be glad to supply you with a copy.

Before Charters Were

THE Bank of New York began business without a Charter in 1784. No Charter was needed to enable it to make the first loan to the new U. S. Government in 1789, but in 1791, it received the first Banking Charter ever granted by the Legislature of the State of New York.

In order to cooperate with the new banking system adopted after the Civil War, The Bank of New York became a national banking institution in 1867. As a result of its merger with the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, the Bank of New York and Trust Company is using the first State Charter which designated a financial institution as a "Trust Company" and carries on the best traditions of New York's oldest bank and its neighbor of ninety-three years, the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company.

OVERSOLD MARKETS MYSTIFY WHEAT PIT

Disappearance of Offerings Without Lifting Prices a Puzzle in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—The sharp downward movement in wheat, the culmination of a week of weakness, was halted today by what appeared to be a small cessation of liquidation by a group of commission houses which had been the principal sellers for the last week. The market closed unchanged to ½ cent lower, after having touched a new low point for the year. Corn closed ½ cent to ¾ cent lower, and oats ¼ cent to ½ cent lower.

Wheat gradually worked lower in the face of a steady decline in the Liverpool market, which was due largely to the fact that Argentine shipments were increasing. Liquidation was heavy, and the market was demoralized. Prices declined 2 cents from the top, and 1½ cents from the bottom. The close was 1½ cents to 2 cents net lower.

There was practically no buying except to the extent of covering by the shorts. Commission houses, which have been credited with the most aggressive buying in the past week, were conspicuous sellers today. In fact, there was a complete withdrawal of support from the market. Country offerings were light. Cash wheat was in good demand. Premiums were unchanged to ½ cent higher. Sales were 1,000,000 bushels.

Corn showed a strong undertone in sympathy with the weakness in wheat. Country offerings were light. Cash corn was in good demand. Premiums were unchanged to ½ cent higher. Sales were 1,000,000 bushels.

Oats showed a strong undertone in sympathy with the weakness in wheat. Country offerings were light. Cash oats were in good demand. Premiums were unchanged to ½ cent higher. Sales were 1,000,000 bushels.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

LAUNDRYMAN WINS PLEA.

Finkelstein Gets Permission to Inspect Grand Jury Minutes.

Permission to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury which recently indicted him on a charge of criminally receiving stolen property was granted yesterday to Jacob Finkelstein, President of the Harlem Wet Wash Corporation of 151 East 125th Street, by Judge Mullooly in General Sessions.

Finkelstein's indictment followed an investigation into an alleged plot by members of the other Wash Laundryman's Protective Association to burn and destroy the laundries of men who had refused to join the union and unionize their plants. Louis Wallinger, under indictment in connection with the plot, charged that Finkelstein bought from him a truck, a delivery wagon and a quantity of linen which was destroyed by the burning of the laundries of the members of the alleged plot.

Counsel for Finkelstein submitted to the court an unsigned note, alleged to be in Wallinger's hand, which, counsel for Finkelstein said, would be used to impeach Wallinger's testimony. The note, which was written by Wallinger to the Tombs authorities, reads: "Dear Sir: I have been in the Tombs for about 10 months. The lawyer and others told Wallinger positively I had made an agreement with him to testify against Finkelstein. I am willing to tell the truth. Wallinger is willing to tell the truth. Finkelstein is the innocent man."

CALIFORNIA

Health and diversion await you in the South Carolina pines—Charleston, Summerville, Aiken—or Augusta, Ga., Jacksonville, Palatka, De Land, Sanford, Orlando, Florida, or along the East Coast, famous as "The American Riviera," St. Augustine, Ormond, Daytona, Cocoa, Rockledge, West Palm Beach, Ft. Lauderdale, Miami and Long Key.

There's a wonderful lure in the Florida resorts bordering on the balmy Gulf of Mexico—Tampa, St. Petersburg, Belleair, Clearwater, Sarasota, Bradentown, or, further south, Sebring, Fort Myers and Key West, "The American Gibraltar," with Uncle Sam's greatest naval and wireless stations, and the new attractive Hotel Casa Marina.

Visit the great Southwest—Galveston with its celebrated Hotel Galvez, on the beach—San Antonio, the historic Alamo—and other Texas cities. Or plan to spend the Winter at San Diego, Los Angeles or elsewhere in California.

Any one of these and many other resorts in the South and Southwest are most comfortably and conveniently reached by "oil burning" luxuriously equipped passenger steamers of these companies.

WARNS OF MARCH 15 INCOME TAX LIMIT

Bureau of Internal Revenue Issues Third of Series to Guide Taxpayers.

ADVISES STUDY OF FORMS

One Hour Thus Spent Will Go Far Toward Assuring Correct Return, It Is Declared.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue, in the third of a series of official contributions for the guidance of taxpayers in preparing their Federal income tax returns, gives the following general information with regard to the administration of the revenue law:

"Income tax returns, sworn to before a notary public or other person authorized to administer an oath, must be filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives or has his principal place of business on or before March 15, 1923.

"Forms 1040A for filing returns of individual incomes of $5,000 or less and Forms 1040 for filing returns of incomes in excess of $5,000 have been sent by mail to persons who filed similar returns for the year 1922. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer of the obligation to file a return and pay the tax on time. Forms may be obtained from the offices of Collectors of Internal Revenue and deputy collectors.

"Revenue officers will be sent into every county in the United States to aid taxpayers in making out their returns. The advisory service heretofore offered by residents will be continued. This service, including the administration of the oath, is without cost to the taxpayer.

"Taxpayers, before sending such returns, however, are advised to read carefully the instructions on the forms. Many persons, which on the face may appear perplexing, can be solved by a study of the instructions. Examples are also given to illustrate taxpayers are advised to refer for personal explanations and questions that may arise.

"In addition to the Government, they should understand fully the instructions with regard to income from salaries, wages, commissions on sales, profits from business or profession, interest on bank deposits, dividends, interest on bonds, annuities, &c., income from trusts and royalties and other items.

"The taxpayer who, when in doubt, carefully will devote to it an hour's study will get a long way in assuring himself that he is making a correct return.

"No forms are being sent out in the Second (Manhattan) District. They may be obtained at the office of Collector Frank K. Bowers, in the Customs House, and later they will be available at banks and other public places.

IRISH OUTLOOK DARK, SAYS BRITISH WRITER

S. K. Ratcliffe Believes "Unfortunate Words" in the Oath of Allegiance Causes Trouble.

"The present last tragic stage in Ireland is so dark that it requires the most desperate optimism to see a way out in the immediate future," declared S. K. Ratcliffe, British publicist, special correspondent for The Manchester Guardian, speaking last night at the Civic Forum in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. The situation in Ireland, Mr. Ratcliffe said, was probably due, in large part, to "certain unfortunate words" in the oath of allegiance. Discussing at the London conference, last Tuesday night, by it was due to the fact that after so many years of struggle and war it would be supporting too much to hope that a specific pledge should exist between the Irish and the British.

Mr. Ratcliffe quoted a writer in the current Atlantic Monthly, who speaks of the possibility of Great Britain even yet making the Irish Free State.

"How such an idea could enter the mind of any intelligent human being I cannot see," exclaimed the speaker. "It is inconceivable that any such fantastic and diabolical purpose should be possible. This writer's awful business of killing men, to bring about a settlement of any question at all, has got to stop. If civilization is to go on."

In answer to a question Mr. Ratcliffe said he doubted that the return of Sir Hamar Greenwood to Ireland would have any appreciable effect on affairs there.

MEXICANS SAFER IN TEXAS.

No Outrages Are Reported Since Pursuit of Last November.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Attention was called by the Mexican Embassy this afternoon to the fact that no instances of the killing of Mexican citizens in Texas had been reported since the Border raids of November and that numerous attacks on Mexicans along the border had apparently ceased.

Before the middle of November according to statistics on file at the Embassy more than thirty Mexicans citizens, or all engaged at work, had been killed during 1922. Several, it was the Consul at Alberto reported himself as satisfied that the period made available for the settlement of differences along the Rio Grande had been followed by great improvement in the situation, due to the prompt action of the State Department and the Texas authorities.

REJECTS CONTEMPT PLEA.

Court Refuses to Cite Estimate Board Members.

Justice Stephen Callaghan, in the Supreme Court, in Brooklyn, yesterday dismissed the application of the Riverside Realty Company to have the members of the Board of Estimate punished for contempt of court for failing to observe an injunction restraining them from acting on a resolution changing from a business zone to a residential zoning part of Sections 1, 2 and 3 in the vicinity of Coney Island Avenue.

At the argument on the application held on Monday it was shown that Mayor Hylan, the only member of the Board of Estimate served with the injunction order and that he was not present when the resolution was voted upon.

DEPLORES LACK OF ETHICS.

Minister Says Ringside Morals Are Better Than Those of Business.

"My Americans are better sportsmen than we are citizens," the Rev. J. Fred Rees, pastor of the Reformed Dutch Church of Flatbush, told members of the Flatbush Civic Club in an address last night at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

"The ethics of the ringside are better than the ethics of the market place," he continued. "To put it bluntly, we permit the same oversight towards the men who are here in quest of profits as we do towards the men who are here in quest of pleasure. We are not quite so particular with the men who organize the liability of corporations."

The end of America is that of the other nations, declared Joseph E. [illegible]

HOLLAND NET HOUSE AFIRE

Dyke Linked a Week by Blaze Along Three Tiny Lanals.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 30.—Holland was not only blamed for causing the fire that light and Hell dyke in the residence of E. H. New 12 story Office Building

THE central location of this new executive office building which is of the highest type of construction, makes it particularly desirable for large law firms, architects and such other large concerns, who desire to conduct their business office on one entire floor.

There are no ugly pillars to mar the layout of the floor space. By this elimination private offices can be very artistically arranged by partitioning. Above the fourth floor there is unobstructed light on three sides.

The owners of this building, Burroughs Wellcome & Co. of London, England, who will occupy the lower part of the building are particularly interested in securing only the highest type of tenants.

Floor space may be leased now from plans in our office in units of—

COULD PARIS DIVORCE BARS ACTION HERE

Court of Appeals Holds Edith Kelly Could Contest Motion Suit in New York.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 31.—A French divorce decree against Edith Kelly Gould is a bar to her divorce action against Frank Jay Gould in the courts of New York State, according to a decision of the Court of Appeals handed down today.

Mrs. Gould instituted her divorce action in New York County in 1923, naming Louis Regan and Florence Lewis, of Paris, as co-respondents. Mr. Gould answered by setting up as a defense a decree obtained by him in Paris against his wife, in which he had named Miss Lewis co-respondent. Mrs. Gould made default in the action, and the decree was affirmed by the Court of Appeals of Paris.

Mr. Gould was represented here by Samuel Seabury, former Judge of the Court of Appeals, who contended that the French decision was in accord with the laws of the State of New York and must be recognized under the comity of nations, and that the New York action could not be maintained, as she was no longer Gould's wife.

Mrs. Gould's counsel, who obtained the Court's consent to appeal from the Appellate Division, said they were to uphold by the highest court.

The Goulds were married in Scotland, Oct. 28, 1923, and lived in New York City until Mr. Gould went to Paris, where he has since lived. Mrs. Gould went to her residence in England later.
